AUSTRIANS CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS IN NEW OFFENSIVE NOW 114,000

In Many Sectors Still Pursuing the Defeated Forces, Says Petrograd Statement.

SURPRISED AT SUCCESSES

Unofficial Report Says the Muscovites Have Occupied Capital of Bukowina.

FIGHTING IS FURIOUS YET

Not Believed That Germans Are Sending Many Troops to Aid.

Petrograd, via London, June 12, —The number of Austrians captured by the Russians in the new offensive movement has been increased to more than 114,000. In many sectors of the front, the official statement of today says, the Russians are still pursuing defeated Austrians.

The statement says Russian troops yesterday approached the outskirts of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, and that they attacked the bridgehead at Zalescyky, which is thirty miles northwest of Czernowitz.

Have Occupied Czernowitz?

An unofficial report in circulation here that the Russians have occupied Czernowitz has been given color by the capture of Dobronovtze, a commanding point ten miles to the northeast. The Russian line extends to Okna. From both these points good roads lead direct to Czernowitz and, according to military authorities, they are the only points in this direction capacle of defense.

A telegram received from Bucharest, Rumania, says the Austrian army had evacuated Czernowitz and moved to a line four miles to the west.

Successes Surprising.

The continued successes of the Russions recorded in today's official communication are the more surprising as the Austrians, after the first shock of the Russian advance, appeared to have rallied their forces and offered extremely stubborn resistance. This is indicated by the fact that they were able to mass sufficient forces in the vicinity of Kolki, north of Lutsk, to cause the Russians to retire across Styr river.

Not only here but at other points on the Volhynian front, furious counter attacks characterized the last 40 hours of fighting but without being able to check momentarily the force of the Russian advance.

It is not believed here that the Germans are sending many troops to aid the Austrians. It is pointed out that only in one instance—during Russia's spectacular Carpathian campaign—did Germany send any large number of men to the relief of the Austrians. Instead, it has been their practice to undertake an offensive on some other line in an endeavor to draw off the Russians. It is the opinion of observers here that it is not improbable the Germans are more likely to attempt an offensive on the northern section of the Russian front than to risk weakening their lines by detaching any number of men for the purpose of stiffening the Austrian defense.

The Official Statement.

The official statement follows:

"Owing to storms in South Russia and consequent temporary rupture of telegraphic communication, reports are delayed and news of our armies is restricted. Nevertheless, it is confirmed that General Brussiloff's offensive continued yesterday. In many sectors of the front we are still pursuing the defeated enemy and in some places we attacked him hotly. He counter-attacked with desperation.

"The total of our prisoners now amounts to 1,700 officers and 113,000 men.

"The following details of the fighting have been received:

"In the course of the engagement near Rojitche (on the Styr near Lutsk) mentioned yesterday, one of our recently formed elements captured 18 officers and 1,185 German soldiers, and 26 officers and 742 Austrian soldiers, as compared with the round figure of 2,000 given yesterday.

"South of Lutsk, on the Ikwa front, the enemy beat a hasty retreat. We are pressing closely on his heels.

"In Galicia, in the region of the villages of Gliadki and Verobievka, north of Tarnopol, the enemy attacked repeatedly and furiously, but was repulsed on the morning of the 11th. In this action our artillery distinguished itself by sustained gusts of fire with which it met all the enemy's attacks.

"In the region of Bobulintze, to the north of Buczacz, the Austrians, assisted by German forces brought to this region, desperately opposed us with a series of counter attacks, to which our troops replied by further attacks, but were forced to give ground a little at this point.

Desperation Increases.

"The fighting continues with ever-increasing desperation.

"In the region south of Dniester our troops were yesterday already near the Zaleszyky bridge where heavy explosions were observed. The enemy blew up a bridge near the village of Mahaly, east of Czernowitz.

"The total number of prisoners taken by General Lechitzks is 20,000, all

HUGHES' RESERVE GONE WITH ROBES

BUT MAKES NO STATEMENT

Not Expected to Make Any Until Formally Notified of Nomination. Gives Serious Consideration to Campaign Plans.

New York, June 12.—Charles E. Hughes re-entered politics today, apparently with abundant zest. He reached this city early in the day, established, temporary headquarters at an uptown hotel and virtually held open house until nearly midnight. Scores of persons on various missions flocked to his rooms, mostly men who had known him when he was campaigning for governor of New York. There also were several party leaders among his callers.

Mr. Hughes expects to issue no statement until he is formally notified of his nomination. The sub-committee to confer with him as to fixing a date for the ceremony probably will wait on him in a few days and until then, it is understood, he will allow his telegram to Chairman Harding of the Republican National convention to stand as his declaration of principles.

Although the nominee's plans are still unsettled, it is likely that he will remain in New York until June 20 or 21, when he expects to attend a reunion of the class of '81 of Brown University and commencement exercises at Providence, R. I. By that time it is believed his plans will be more settled.

Air of Reserve Gone.

To those who knew the nominee as a Supreme Court justice, there was a marked change in his bearing today. His air of reserve apparently left him with the robes of his office. His eye sparkled with enjoyment, he had a hearty hand grasp and a smile for every man he met and seemed enthusiastic in his welcome of old friends who came to see him after intervals of years.

They came in crowds. One man, an old school mate, "who used to call him Charley," dropped in after an absence of nearly 40 years. Another, who said he had not seen him for 15 years, waited an hour in his ante-room to remind the nominee of the days when he taught a Bible class in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church here, of which the caller was a member; "the class," he said, "that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., taught afterward."

Robert Fuller, who was his secretary when he was governor, spent the afternoon helping him receive callers. Among those who called were Henry W. Taft, State Chairman Tanner, of New York; George W. Wickersham—who quickly denied a report that he

BANDIT LEADER BACKED BY CARRANZA OFFICERS

So Army Officers at San Antonio Are Convinced Now.

They Say DelaRosa Has Been Promised Support in Warfare Against Americans—Large Part of Riding Band Eliminated.

San Antonio, Texas, June 12.—Army officers here are convinced that Luis De La Rosa, the Mexican bandit leader, has secured from certain officers in Carranza's army promises of support in any border warfare that he may regin against Americans. Agents of the Department of Justice and State Department have sent to Washington and to army headquarters evidence, regarded here as reliable, that DeLaRosa has been assured that he will be unmolested by defasto troops and promised assistance from at leas one general officer of Carranza's army.

A report that De La Rosa had been arrested at Monterey had not been confirmed tonight. He has been entering and leaving Monterey with apparent immunity for some time, according to reports.

A large part of the little band of raiders that appeared on the Coleman ranch already has been eliminated and armed and American soldiers were scouring the country in the vicinity of Webb, Texas, late today and tonight in an effort to wipe out the remiander.

Passengers arriving from Mexico report increasing economic difficulties and a growing anti-Americanism, especially in the northern part of the republic. Anti-American meetings in many towns have had official sanction. A copy of "LaReforma," published at Saltillo, reached here today in which four columns were used to explain why all residents of the place should participate in a mass meeting called there

FRENCH REPULSE GERMAN ASSAULTS

Italians Continue to Drive Back Austrians South of Trent, According to Rome.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Germans Have Taken Offensive Against Russians Northwest of Pripet Marsh Region—Heavy Fighting on Eastern Front.

Northeast of Verdun, the Germans with heavy effectives have thrown successive attacks against the French positions north of Thiaumont, but all the assaults were repulsed with serious losses. The heavy bombardment by the Germans in this region extended from Thiaumont eastward to the west and south of Fort Vaux and the French second line positions at Fort Souville and Fort Tavannes, about three miles northeast of Verdun.

On the remainder of the front in France and Belgium there have been only artillery duels and sapping operations except in Champagne where Berlin reports the penetration of French positions and the capture of more than 100 men and four machine guns.

South and southeast of Trent, the Italians are continuing to drive back the Austrians, according to Rome. Gains have been made by the Italians in the Arsa valley, and the Pasubio sector, along the Posina-Astico line, and southwest of Asiago. Farther north, in the Sugana valley, fresh progress toward the Maso Torrent is recorded for King Victor Emmanuel's men, who repelled two counter attacks near Scurelle. In the LaGarina valley the Austrians are heavily bombarding the Italians on Coni Sugna.

A Russian cavalry force of 1,000 men operating between the Caucasus and Mesopotamia fronts has been annihilated by the Turks who also captured a large amount of war material according to Constantinople.

Heavy fighting is in progress over virtually the entire eastern front from the Gulf of Riga to Bukowina, a distance of between 600 and 700 miles. From Riga to the Jasiolda river, northwest of the Pripet marsh region, the Germans have taken the offensive against the Russians, probably in an effort to divert the attention of the Russians who are in the second week of their drive against the Austro-Hungarians and Germans, from the Pripet marshes southward to Bukowina.

On all sectors of the northern line the Russians have successfully withstood the German onslaughts and driven the attacking forces back. They have even gained ground against them north of the Tirul marsh, southwest of Riga, says Petrograd.

In southwest Russia, in the region of Lutsk, fresh advances against the Austro-Hungarians are reported by the Russian war office, as likewise is the case across the border through East Galicia. In the southern part of this region, the Russians are nearing Czernowitz, the capital of the Austrian crown land of Bukowina.

Although the Austrians at numerous points are vigorously counter attacking, the only place the Russians have been forced to give ground before them was near Bodulintze, north of Buczacz in Galicia, where the Austrians were reinforced by German troops. The Russians captured here by the Teu-

NO FIELD FORTRESSES YET ARE IMPREGNABLE

Those Constructed of Concrete and Steel Can be Taken.

This Fact Proven by Continued Russian Advance, According to British View—Russian Artillery Effective in Action.

London, June 12.—All the special dispatches from Petrograd remark on the fine work of the Russian artillery, to which the recent advance is mainly attributed. The continued Russian advance proves that the Germans constructed field fortresses of steel and concrete, which were supposed to be impregnable, can be taken by assault, despite all the latest scientific devices. The incomparable Russian guns and mining, says one correspondent, made short work of fivefold fortified lines.

It is reported that in some places, where the Austrian preparations were most elaborate, the Russians captured 12 lines of entrenchments in rapid succession, while armored motor cars supplemented the cavalry in pursuit of the retreating forces. The pursuit was facilitated by the excellence of the roads which the Austrians had constructed for their own transports.

Northwest of Tarnopol the Russians employed gas reservoirs captured from the Austrians, "overwhelming the enemy with his own poisonous fumes."

Lutsk was protected by 19 rows of entanglements, when the Russians received the order to storm the place at dawn on Wednesday. The issue hung in the balance until noon; then a breach was made in the Austrian position.

The town of Dubno, say the dispatches, was almost demolished by the Russian artillery fire, which preceded its occupation. Before their departure, the Austrians removed all the civilians capable of working.

CROP OF BOOMLETS FOR OTHERS THAN MARSHALL KILLED

While Favorite Sons Are Brought Forward for Vice-President, Plans Are Not Upset.

SECRETARY BAKER URGED

"There Will be No Hitch in Present Plan to Renominate" Ticket, Declares McCombs.

St. Louis, June 12.—Ante-convention discussion centered largely today on moves and suggestions to defeat plans for the re-nomination of Vice-President Marshall and put a new man on the ticket with President Wilson. As the number of delegates to the Democratic National convention grew hourly greater boomlets for various favorite sons appeared on the surface to rise and fall with the tide of talk.

The movement took well defined form and substance when Henry Morgenthau, who recently gave up his post as ambassador to Turkey that he might engage in the work of re-electing President Wilson, announced that a "stronger man" than Marshall should be named and brought forward Secretary of War Baker to run with President Wilson.

News that Mr. Morgenthau was booming Secretary Baker created something more than mild discussion for it was pointed out that Mr. Morgenthau had been close to the administration and that it might indicate that the naming of Mr. Baker would not be unacceptable. Mr. Morgenthau has endeavored however, to make it clear he was urging Mr. Baker's nomination on his own responsibility and iniative, solely with the desire of naming the strongest possible candidate for the office.

Telegram From Jacob Schiff.

National Chairman McCombs said tonight that he had received a telegram from Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, asking that a stronger candidate than Mr. Marshall be named and Mr. Morgenthau also stated that he had received a letter from Mr. Schiff containing a similar request.

Talk that Secretary Baker's name would be presented as a candidate for vice president caused a rush of delegates to national committeemen and other party leaders to know if there had been any change in the plans to rename Mr. Marshall.

The information was quickly given that "noses had been counted long ago," and that, while one or two names other than Marshall's might be heard on the convention floor, the vote for him would be virtually unanimous, if there is not a nomination by acclamation.

"There will be no hitch in the plan to rename the present Democratic ticket," said Mr. McCombs tonight. National Committeeman Mack, of New York, also declared that the talk of upsetting the plan to re-name Mr Marshall was "silly and absurd."

New Booms Hourly.

Booms for new candidates for vice president still appeared hourly, the last one to come to notice tonight being one for Judge A. M. Jackson, of Winfield, Kan. The delegation from Kansas is to arrive tomorrow.

The Nebraska delegation is instructed as a unit for Governor John H. Morehead for the vice presidency, but it was reported tonight that when Governor Morehead reaches St. Louis tomorrow he will agree to renounce his candidacy conditioned upon the withdrawal of the candidacy of Roger Sullivan, of Illinois. As Mr. Sullivan has never seriously been a candidate for vice president, his name being brought forward by Illinois friends simply with the desire to pay the state leader a compliment, it appeared to leaders tonight an agreement with Governor Morehead could be reached.

A. Mitchell Palmer arrived today with part of the Pennsylvania delegation and promptly declared that all were for Marshall. Palmer said he made the announcement to help "kill off the little boomlets."

Bryan Not to Fight.

William J. Bryan does not expect to precipitate any fight on the party platform. That was the information brought here today by a close friend of the former Secretary of State who added that Mr. Bryan might not after all go before the resolutions committee and that he would not make any effort to obtain a proxy that would seat him on the convention floor. Mr. Bryan is expected here late tonight or tomorrow when Senator Ollie James, President Wilson's choice for permanent chairman, Secretary of War Baker and other notable political leaders are due to arrive.

Senator Stone, who is to be the chairman of the committee on resolutions, issued a statement this afternoon in which he characterized the nomination of Justice Hughes by the Republicans as in every way bad and vicious. Senator Stone's pronouncement was generally taken to mean here, by leaders, that the Democratic party would probably make a party issue against Justice Hughes on the ground of his nomination to the presidency while on the Supreme Court bench. Other leaders, however, were not inclined to press this issue, recalling that the par-

CONFERENCE FAR FROM AGREEMENT

Much Depends Upon Railroads' Detailed Explanation of "Contingent" Proposition.

WILL BE HEARD TODAY

If Not Satisfactory, the Employes' Brotherhood Will Vote on General Strike; Then Renew Demands—Lee Coming.

New York, June 12.—Representatives of the chief railroads of the United States and of the unions of railroad employes were far from an agreement on questions of wages and hours of work when an adjournment of their conference was taken late today. Upon the detailed explanation tomorrow of the railroads of their counter or contingent proposition, it was predicted by A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, would depend the future attitude of the railroad men on the point of ordering a strike vote among the 350,000 members of the union.

Mr. Garretson's prediction was prompted by the fact that during the day the conference came suddenly to a halt when the railroads "contingent" proposition, tantatively granting the demanded eight-hour day but refusing double compensation for double service, was rejected.

"We have already rejected the railroads' proposition, name it what you will," said President Garretson; "we are not engaged in getting it read into the record in detail. There does not seem to be anything else to discuss when the railroads finish tomorrow. If the railroads do not back down from their position that their proposition must be based on their 'yard stick' method, then there is no further necessity for continuing the conference."

Vote on Strike Next.

Mr. Garretson and the other Brotherhood leaders stated that if the conference breaks up tomorrow they will report back to the men and a vote on the general strike will be taken. Then they will return to the railroads and renew their demands. If they are refused, the general strike will be called.

The conference, threatening to come to an end today immediately after Elisha Lee, chairman of the railroad managers and of the conference, read an outline of a "contingent" proposition. An adjournment was taken until late in the day and then it was decided to suspend final action until the railroads' proposal had been heard in detail.

Mr. Lee admitted tonight that the situation was serious but was hopeful for the establishment of a middle ground that would permit the continuation of the conference. He explained that the "contingent" offer was predicated on the men's demands, and granted everything but the double compensation feature. The men claim that the exclusion of the double com-

ONE RAIDER WAS A CARRANZA OFFICER

Body of Lieut. Colonel Villareal Identified Among the Three Bandits Killed.

PLANNED TO WRECK TRAIN

Captured Bandit Talks Freely of Their Purpose to Burn Bridge and Rob Passengers on Train—Troops Stationed at Webb.

Laredo, Texas, June 12. — One of the three Mexican bandits killed today in the chase of outlaws who raided the T. A. Coleman ranch, near Laredo, last night, wore a Carranza uniform bearing the insignia of a Carranza lieutenant colonel, according to a message received here tonight. One of the bandits taken prisoner identified the body at Webb, Texas, this afternoon as Lieutenant Colonel Villareal, of the Carranza army.

Cenobio Mendez, a Mexican cowboy, captured by the bandits in the raid on the Coleman ranch, and who escaped when the Mexicans were surprised while attempting to burn the bridge on the International & Great Northern railroad, near Webb, said tonight the bandits talked freely of their purpose to burn the bridge and wreck a train, after which they intended killing and robbing the passengers.

At Encinal, just east of Laredo, the bandits, according to Mendez, permitted him to write a farewell letter to his wife, they having previously stated their intention of killing him. The letter was given to Villareal, leading the band, who promised to deliver it to Mendez's wife. This letter was found on the bandit's body.

Deputy Sheriff Dolores, of Laredo, headed the posse which intercepted the bandits at the bridge, and it was one of the deputy's shots which killed Villareal, according to reports here. Villareal and his band fought desperately, and only tried to escape when their leader had been killed. Two other Mexicans were killed before the bandits retreated. Villareal was about 25 years old.

American soldiers are stationed at Webb tonight, owing to fears that the town will be attacked by bandits in revenge for the killing of their leader.

Fichmond, Va., June 12.—Richmond delegates to the St. Louis convention left here at 7 o'clock, headed by Lieutenant Governor J. Taylor Ellyson, and J. N. Brenaman, secretary of the state committee. Governor Henry C. Stuart and his party will meet other delegates from Virginia at Cincinnati. The party was joined at Gordonsville by Senators Thomas S. Martin, and Claude Swanson, and Representative Hal D. Flood They expect to arrive in St. Louis on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM A REMARKABLE FULMINATION

Senator Stone Says One Half the Legislation it Demands Has Already Been Enacted, and the Other Half Now Being Worked Out, by the Democratic Party—Views Hughes' Nomination as Dangerous.

St. Louis, June 12.—Senator Stone, who is to be chairman of the resolutions committee of the Democratic National convention, issued a statement today calling the Republican platform drafted in Chicago a "remarkable fulmination" with one-half the legislation it demanded already enacted and the other half now being worked out by the Democratic party. Senator Stone said that he considered Mr. Hughes a man of ability and character but looked upon his nomination while he was on the bench as full of menace and danger.

"My objection to the nomination of Mr. Hughes," said the senator's statement, "lies in the fact that I regard it as bad in every way, even vicious, for a great political party, hard pressed and on its uppers, to invade the Supreme Court of the United States and take down from that bench one of its justices to make him a party candidate for a political office to meet and serve a party exigency. The experiment is full of menace and danger. Hereafter it is more than probable that men appointed to the Supreme Court will begin to regard it not as the honorable and final goal of their ambition, but as a stepping stone to what they will, as Mr. Hughes does, regard as a political advancement beyond the judicial position they hold.

Wherein Lies Danger.

"In that view of things, it will follow that the decisions of judges of that great tribunal will become more or less the subject of suspicion. People will begin to surmise whether decisions on questions of wide or general interest have behind them some sinister political design. The tendency will be to undermine public confidence in that great court—a thing that would be full of evil consequences if not disastrous. Some state constitutions, I am told, contain provisions which make the judges of their supreme courts ineligible to a political office during the term for which they are elected or appointed. I am inclined to the opinion that it would be wise to amend the constitution of the United States so as to make a Justice of the Supreme Court ineligible to any political office while a member of that court or for a period of five years following his retirement or separation therefrom."

Progressive Platform.

The Senator criticised the Progressive platform and called attention to the fact that it contains a declaration that the issue was "one of men" of which he said "the Progressives meant Roosevelt." Now, he said, "Roosevelt sulks in his tent at Oyster Bay while his loyal following waits uncertain and disrupted."

"Will he respond and lead them singing 'Onward, Christian Soldiers'?" concluded the senator's statement, "or will he shrink before the uplifted swords of the old guard and thus leave his ready and stalwart adherents, victims of one of the most pitiful and tragic betrayals ever recorded in American history?"

RESOURCES OF NATIONAL BANKS CONTINUE RAPIDLY INCREASING

Gained More Than a Quarter Billion From March 7 to May 1.

Washington, June 12. — Resources of National banks in the United States continue to increase rapidly. Their growth in the period between March 7 and May 1, Comptroller Williams announced tonght, was $256,000,000, pushing the total up to more than fourteen billion dollars.

Deposits in the time covered increased $241,000,000, reaching a total of slightly more than eleven billion dollars. Circulation decreased thirteen million dollars, although on May 1 it still was larger by $42,000,000 than a year ago. Reserves showed a reduction of $127,000,000, but a net increase within the year of $336,000,000.

A year's increase in total resources is given as slightly more than two and one-half billions.

SECRETARY BAKER SENDS 1,500 MORE TROOPS TO BORDER

Reports From Over Northern Mexico Tell of Rapid Spread of Anti-American Feeling.

GROWING ALARM CAUSED

Officials Seem to Believe Serious Purpose Was Behind Coleman Ranch Raid.

Washington, June 12.—Coincident with continuing reports from consuls all over northern Mexico telling of the rapid spread of anti-American feeling, the War Department today ordered 1,500 additional regular troops to the border. Tonight administration officials made no attempt to disguise their uneasiness and it was officially admitted that there is growing alarm over what the agitation may produce and the possibility of an attack on General Pershing's expedition.

No case of attack on the persons of American residents in Mexico has been reported, although there have been one or two attacks on vacant consulates and other American property.

Part of the increasing apprehension here is due to the renewed raids in the Laredo region. Several reports dealing with the situation there have been received. Officials declined to reveal details, but seemed inclined to believe a serious purpose was behind the bandit raid on the Coleman ranch. Three raiders were killed and three captured, one report said, adding that they attempted to burn a railroad bridge near Laredo but failed.

The new force sent to join General Funston's border patrol, Secretary Baker said, was to fill in gaps in the guard such as that near Laredo.

No National Guard Regiments.

It will be composed of ten companies of coast artillery and a battalion of engineers. The artillerymen will be withdrawn from fortifications between Portland, Maine, and Sandy Hook, and the engineers go from barracks in this city. The Secretary said there was no present intention of calling out additional National Guard regiments for border duty.

General Mann, commanding at Laredo, reported today that a patrol of three cavalrymen was fired on during the night of June 10 near the town of Hachita, and Private W. L. Saunders, Troop K., 12th cavalry, slightly wounded. Two mounted Mexicans who did the firing escaped.

A message from Captain Burrage commanding the battleship Nebraska, at Vera Cruz, said there was considerable unrest in that region due, apparently, to the currency situation. There were no evidences of unfriendliness toward Americans, the message said.

Called to Attention of Carranza.

The State Department through Special Agent Rodgers, at Mexico City, has called the attention of the defacto government to the anti-American outbreaks, which for nearly two weeks have been spreading steadily. Many towns have held mass meetings and protested against the continued presence of American troops in Mexico. In two or three instances American property has been attacked but no threats against lives of Americans has been reported. The reports of consuls telling of the agitation were turned over to the Carranza officials more as a matter of information than as representations. Where his regular troops are in control, apparently General Carranza has earnestly tried in most cases to prevent the holding of protest meetings, and in some places contemplated meetings and parades have been prevented. There are instances, however where the troops appear to have stood idly by while the agitators stirred up antagonism against the United States.

Officials have been unable to determine the inspiration behind the sudden outbreak of anti-American feeling or to estimate the ability of General Carranza to protect American lives and property.

Where Real Danger Lies.

They feel that the real danger lies in the possible action of irregular forces whose commanders yield only doubtful allegiance to Carranza.

Because of economic conditions in Mexico, officials feel that the possibility of serious trouble is enhanced. The currency situation is acute and the people are restless and easily stirred to outbreaks. Several consular agents have frankly declared in their reports that any eventuality might be expected if the agitation continued to spread.

Secretary Lansing still is at work on his reply to the Carranza note demanding withdrawal of American forces, but it may not be sent for a week or ten days.

The coast artillery ordered to the border today includes two companies from Portland, Maine, two from Boston, two from Narragansett Bay, two from Long Island, one from Eastern New York, one from Southern New York, and one from Sandy Hook. Approximately 1,000 men will compose this provisional infantry regiment. The engineer battalion, about 500 strong, is composed of companies A, B, C and D.

One Rebel Movement Repulsed.

The Carranza troops have repulsed the new rebel movement in the Tehauntepec region according to today's advices. State Department reports indicate that Carranza's control over certain state governors is waning. The governors have issued decrees and even currency without the authority of approval of the central government.

The currency situation in Vera Cruz mentioned in Captain Burrage's dispatch, is described as due to the repudiation of issues of large denomination bills put out by Carranza while he made his capital there. Conditions

HOPE RUNS HIGH IN SUFFRAGE CIRCLES

That Democratic Convention Will Incorporate an Equal Rights Plank in Platform

NO DECLARATION MADE

Leaders Regard Attitude of Many Democratic Leaders as Favorable —Anti-Suffragists on Hand Also to Be Heard.

St. Louis, June 13.—Hope was high in suffrage circles tonight that the Democratic convention will incorporate an equal rights plank of some form in its platform. No official declaration of the convention's intention was forthcoming, but suffrage leaders regard the attitude of many Democratic leaders toward their cause as friendly.

Suffrage leaders tonight had made tentative arrangements for a hearing by the resolutions committee on their demands, probably on Wednesday and were in an optimistic mood.

Mrs. Arthur Dodge, of New York, leader of the anti-suffragist forces, is here to make a determined stand against any favorable mention of equal rights in the platform. National Chairman McCombs said tonight that she probably would be given the same amount of time as the suffragists. The National American Woman Suffrage Association and the Congressional Union and its auxiliary, the Woman's Party will divide the time equally for the plank.

The national association want only a favorable declaration for suffrage in the platform, while the Union and the Woman's Party desire immediate action by Congress on the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

Members of the National Association were elated tonight to receive a telegram from Senator Borah, who assisted in drafting the Republican platform, declaring that the suffrage plank was intended to endorse equal suffrage unqualifiedly.

The telegram says the plank recognizes the right of each state to settle the question itself, but it does not declare against the taking away of that right.

Appeals to Wilson.

Sara Bard Field, of Oregon, a leader of the Woman's Party, today telegraphed an appeal to President Wilson for aid in getting the Anthony amendment through Congress and promising the support of herself and five other speakers in the coming campaign if it is given.

"This is not sent you in a spirit of bargaining," said Mrs. Field's message "To that you would turn a deaf ear It is asking you to make it possible, as far as you are able, to give Democratic women a chance to tell our women voters that you have done the things of paramount importance to women and of significant advantage to the Democratic party."

A communication soon will be addressed to Charles E. Hughes, requesting him to go on record on the suffrage issue in his speech of acceptance in a more definite manner than his party platform commits him.

GIBRALTAR FOR FLORIDA.

England Once Offered to Make the Trade With Spain.

(From St. Louis Globe-Dispatch.)

You know that for everlasting stability and stubborn resistance there is nothing in the world like Gibraltar. Did you ever hear of a curious little bargain, which was never consummated, but in which that great rock at the mouth of the Mediterranean figured as part of the price? It had to do with an important part of our country, and yet it is seldom mentioned in any of our histories. The impregnable fortress was fought over by the Spaniards and the Moors for two centuries, and it came in for the keen interest of Oliver Cromwell, who thundered at the British the fact that if they ever hoped to become the dominating sea power of the world, they must control the Mediterranean from Gibraltar. This great necessity was never lost sight of, but a suitable pretext did not arise until the war of the Spanish succession, when England and France were at each other's throats for the mastery of Europe.

Under Admiral Sir George Brooke, the British fleet made an unexpected attack on the Spanish defenses and captured Gibraltar in 1704. Presently the English sickened of their bargain. That was long before the digging of the Suez Canal by the French and the Egyptians, and the cost of maintaining the rocky fortress appeared to be out of all proportion to its worth. When Spain was approached by Napoleon for the purchase of Florida, as a blow at England from the western theatre of the Anglo-French war, England offered to trade Gibraltar for Florida. Had the trade taken place, England would not now be undisputed mistress of the sea.

LAW AND TOOTHACHES

(N. Y. letter to Pittsburg Dispatch).

A jumping toothache is no excuse for smoking in a factory building in New York, as two sufferers found when arraigned in court, charged with smoking in a loft building in violation of the law. "It's true, your honor," admitted the first sufferer. "It was like this. I had an awful toothache. I had to have relief; couldn't work and all that sort of thing. So I smoked a cigarette and the ache disappeared, presto, like that."

"Thirty dollars or three days in jail," was the only sympathy the suffered received from the magistrate. The second suffered was fined $20 or two days.

"And, by the way," the magistrate added as the two men were led away, "you fellows might call in the Tombs dentist while you are serving out your sentenced. It might save you a return engagement."

Laredo, Texas, June 12.—Capt. Ola W. Bell and his detachment of the 14th Cavalry, sent out Sunday to pursue Mexican bandits who had raided two ranches northwest of Laredo, were located late tonight 40 miles west of Laredo, near Palafox, Texas, where they are maintaining a close border potrol. Captain Bell's force, it is said, did not cross the Rio Grande at any time and has not as yet intercepted any of the bandits.

ty drafted Alton B. Parker when he was chief judge of the New York court of appeals.

Labor Planks Brought.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, with other labor leaders, today brought 14 planks which they will seek to have incorporated in the party platform.

The National committee held a session as a preliminary to the opening of the convention on Wednesday and formally arranged for the temporary organization. Former Governor Glynn, of New York, was officially named as temporary chairman. Only one seat—that in the Hawaii delegation—among the 1,092 in the convention, was contested before the committee.

St. Louis took on a real convention atmosphere today. Hotels were thronged with arriving delegates, bands played and marching clubs paraded. Flags were flung from every pole and streamers of bunting decorated buildings and hotels.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN EXPECTED BUT FREE FROM PERSONALITIES

St. Louis, June 12.—Democratic leaders, looking forward to the campaign, are virtually in accord that it will be marked with inspiring oratory, a clash of intellects between President Wilson and Mr. Hughes and markedly free from personalities. None of the Democrats belittle the ability of Mr. Hughes as a campaigner, and they realize his physical fitness to go into a four months' contest.

To meet Mr. Hughes and the Republican campaigners behind him, they expect to call upon the best of the Democratic party. Whether he personally will go into the campaign will be decided by the President only, but it is probable that an effort will be made to get him to speak.

Democratic leaders recall that, although there has been some argument against a President taking the stump in a campaign for re-election, precedents are not lacking. They point out that Mr. Taft made many trips throughout the East in the battle for convention delegates with Colonel Roosevelt and that the two candidates followed each other through state after state.

Nothing is further from their thoughts than a similar campaign, but Mr. Wilson will almost certainly be asked to contribute to some active participation, to offset any advantage the Republicans may gain from the speeches of a man who has been governor of a most potential state and justice of the Supreme Court.

BAKER GOES TO ST. LOUIS AS WILSON'S REPRESENTATIVE

Washington, June 13.—Secretary Baker left for St. Louis tonight as personal representative of President Wilson at the Democratic convention. He had held frequent conferences at the White House and took with him the President's draft of a platform, together with other political suggestions for consideration by the convention.

Secretary Baker will reach St. Louis tomorrow evening. During the week he will keep in close touch with the White House by telephone and telegraph, giving information on developments and receiving advice.

President Wilson also left tonight to deliver an address tomorrow before graduates of the Military Academy at West Point. He is expected to indicate his attitude on many points of the campaign.

Reports from St. Louis that Secretary Baker was being considered by some delegates for the vice presidential nomination were discounted by administration officials, who have indicated all along that they expected Vice President Marshall to be renominated. Secretary Baker, told of the report just as he was leaving for St. Louis, received it with a smile.

"That, he said, is a bit of friendly enterprise on the part of some of my friends. I am for Marshall. He is the man and will be named for the place. You may quote me as saying that the honor of mention is quite enough for me."

MARSHALL IS THE MAN SAYS SECRETARY BAKER

Washington, June 13.—Secretary Baker, when told he was being mentioned for the vice presidency said:

"That is a bit of friendly enterprise on the part of some of my friends. I am for Marshall. He is the man and will be named for the place."

"TANLAC HELPED ME MORE THAN I DREAMED FOR"

Declares Well Known Second Street Man---Has Gained in Weight and is Able to Work Better.

"Besides liberating me from terrible indigestion pains, Tanlac has added to my weight and done more for me than I ever dreamed it could," J. A. Williams, well known loom fixer of Wilmington, and residing at 915 South Second street, explained to the Tanlac Man.

"Before taking Tanlac I was troubled with a heavy, bloated feeling from eating; was unable to sleep restfully and was nervous to an extent that dizzy spells frequently attacked me and handicapped my work. I felt more like a dead man than a human.

"Then I listened to friends, who said: 'Get Tanlac.' I have taken just one bottle, and can now do my work with ease; nervousness has left me entirely; I can enjoy sound and refreshing sleep; and am gaining in weight, and the pains in my stomach and around my heart are a thing of the past."

Commenting on the above indorsement, E. H. Drum said: "Statements like this, made and published right in the town where the fact can and should be verified, leave nothing else to be desired in establishing the merits of this great medicine.

"Tanlac stands on what it has done, and on what it is doing every day. Local testimonials from reliable people from all walks of life are published by us for the very purpose of making investigation easy and practicable for all those who are suffering from the troubles that Tanlac so easily, so effectively and so invariably reaches."

had been to Oyster Bay to enlist Colonel Roosevelt's aid in the campaign—Herbert Parsons, National committeeman from New York; Samual Koenig, New York Republican leader; William A. Day, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; S. S. McClure, and many other local leaders in the nominee's home state.

Considers Campaign Plans.

Although felicitations were numerous, there also was serious consideration of campaign plans. The chief affairs requiring the nominee's immediate attention are the selection of a national chairman, the opening of headquarters and deciding on a summer headquarters for himself.

Attempts to obtain further expressions from Mr. Hughes as to his views on the issues of the day were unsuccessful, and it was made plain to callers that there is no intention on his part to say anything concerning them until his formal notification.

Party leaders among his callers seemed to agree that the campaign would be started early. Mr. Parsons said that in his opinion the campaign already was on.

"It started Saturday," he said, "when Mr. Hughes sent his telegram to Chairman Harding."

The campaign in New York City is to be opened this week, Mr. Koenig said.

Settles One Question.

Although Mr. Hughes declined to comment on political affairs, he settled one question today. Some of his callers addressed him as "Governor," some as "Mr. Justice Hughes," some as "Mr. Hughes" and one outspoken admirer called him "Mr. President." Mr. Hughes held up his hand. "No," he said, "I resigned as governor; I am no longer a Supreme Court justice, and—well, just make it plain Mr. Hughes."

Because of the press of political conferences, Mr. Hughes stated late today that he would not be able to take part in the preparedness parade at Washington Wednesday.

HAVE BEGUN TO ESTIMATE AVAILABLE MEXICAN FORCES

Chihuahua City, June 10 (via Juarez, June 12).—Officials here have begun to estimate available Mexican forces in the event of armed hostilities. It was said that in addition to his present command, General Jacinto Trevino has subject to his call in the state of Chihuahua alone 50,000 men, all veterans.

Despite the somewhat critical situation here, the campaign against the bandits is being pursued actively.

General Ignacio Ramos, after his recent victory over the largest band in the field, reported today he was pursuing the bandits along the upper Rio Florida, while a column under General Domingo Arrieta has been ordered to assist in the annihilation of the band. There have been rumors that Villa himself was in command of the outlaws.

Reports of the discovery in several caves in Northern Durango of caches of about 25,000,000 rounds of Villa rifle ammunition reached General Trevino today.

Ten men are being held for trial for participation in the recent attack upon the Chihuahua foreign club and General Trevino is arranging to compensate the club for the damage done.

—Members of the police department about 2:30 o'clock this morning arrested Richard Sampson, colored, 17 years old, delivery boy at Shrier & Solomon's store, at his home, No. 1111 Castle street, on the charge of being implicated in the robbery of the store early this morning. The charge is that he made arrangements for the robbers to enter the store.

GERMANY SEEKING NEW LOAN

Issue to Be for Ten Months, to Aid in Stabilizing Exchange Market.

(Baltimore Sun.)

Negotiations are now under way for the placing in this country of a German loan for an amount said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. If the matter is concluded satisfactorily it will be the second direct loan for that amount to have been floated in this country since the outbreak of the war. The first loan of $10,000,000 was for nine months. Like the one now under negotiation, it was brought out by Chandler & Co., Inc. Members of this firm were extremely reticent last night about discussing the details of the proposed new loan, saying the news was premature.

From other sources it was learned, however, that it will probably be for $10,000,000 and will run for ten months. It is said it will bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. and will be offered on a 5.20 per cent. basis. It is known that individuals have already been sounded as to whether they could be counted upon to take a part of the loan were the negotiations concluded satisfactorily.

It is supposed that like the first direct German loan brought out here the proceeds of the sale of the imperial German government ten months notes will be devoted to stabilizing the exchange market. The notes will be issued as June 1 and will fall due on April 1, 1917, it is understood. The first loan was paid off before it became due.

Aside from the direct loan floated here subscriptions to the German war loans have been sought by houses with German affiliations, though Chandler & Co., Inc., have had no part in these offerings.

ELECTRIC DEVICE ON RANGE

Germans Use Indicators to Signal When Firing at Target

(From Popular Mechanics.)

Satisfactory results have apparently attended the use of electric indicators installed shortly before the war at the ranges of a rifle club at Spandon, near Berlinfi for the purpose of signaling from the butts to the firing points the value of each shot.

Separate apparatus is used on each range, and consists principally of two indicators, one acting as a transmitter, and the other as a receiver. The dials of each are numbered from 0 to 20 and inscribed with the words "telephone" and "stop."

The pointers of both instruments may be moved simultaneously by turning a handle provided with the transmitter, which is connected with an adjusting device that resembles a small motor and is mounted within the housing.

After a marksman has fired a shot he presses a button to signal the target man, who then reads the score and adjusts the index of the transmitter to correspond with the ring number hit by the bullet. This adjusts the pointer on the receiving dial to read the same as the transmitter.

A telephone is also included with the system, and when the operator at the target wishes to communicate with the marksman he turns the pointer on the transmitter to "telephone." This informs the latter o fthe call.

The use of the indicator system has greatly increased the capacity of the ranges by cutting the otherwise necessary delays between successive shots.

Absorption Process Makes Faces Young

Success has at last come to scientists who for years have sought some method of removing the outer veil of facial skin in cases of unsightly complexions, which would be both painless and harmless. The new process is so simple, so inexpensive, the wonder is no one had discovered it long ago. It has been amply demonstrated that common mercolized wax (sold by druggists in ounce packages) entirely removes, by gentle absorption, the withered, lifeless surface skin, showing the youthful, rose-like skin beneath. The wax is applied at night, like cold cream, and washed off in the morning. The absorption also cleanses clogged pores, increasing the skin's breathing capacity and preserving tone, color and natural beauty of the new skin.

A simple and harmless wrinkle-remover which has also proved quite successful, can easily be made at home in a jiffy. All one need do is to dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and bathe the face in the solution once a day for awhile. After the very first application the finer lines disappear and the deeper ones soon follow.

ROCKY MOUNT ACQUIRES CARL BROWN FROM MEMPHIS CLUB

Rocky Mount, N. This is the sixth new player added to the roster of the local club in eight days, but during that time not a regular of last year's squad has been released and Al Kaiser, an outfielder, with Richmond this year, but who failed to report in condition, has been returned to his home in Cincinnati, while Jakie Poh, the Richmond youth formerly with Suffolk and later Petersburg, has retired from baseball.

Fifteen Innings To Tie At Rocky Mount

GAME CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF DARKNESS, AFTER THREE HOURS OF PLAY WITH SCORE OF SIX TO SIX.

(Special Star Telegram)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 12.—Old Sol was forced to hurry on after he had watched over three hours of play, during which time neither Petersburg nor Rocky Mount could claim a decision in 15 innings of play today. The game finally wound up with a score of six to six and the hitting of Eisel told the story of why the Tar Heels had a look-in.

This fellow not only slashed safe with the bases drunk in the sixth, but after the game had apparently been tucked away in the eighth by the visitors and after two were out, he tied the score with a line drive that rested beyond the enclosure. Pool, who started the game, was relieved in the sixth in favor of Mullen. Leake journeyed throughout, and, though his support wabbled often behind him, he was effective with men on third even to the point of preventing anything but a feeble grounder that caused the runner to be nailed at the last corner.

The court's action was based solely on the ground that the West Virginia legislature had not met in regular session since the judgment was entered.

RID FIELD OF MOLES.

Farmer Says Pig and Dog Are Clearing His Place of Pests.

(Danville, Ill., Correspondence.)

Sam Ebling, a farmer living near here, in Blount township, has been troubled a great deal already this spring by ground moles, and he fears that much more damage would be done by the little pests. However, he has hit on a novel and seemingly successful plan of combating the nuisance, and is fast ridding his farm of moles. He was in his hog lot a few days ago and noticed that one of the Berkshire shoats persisted in rooting in the soft ground made by the moles.

Ebling took the pig to a field, parts of which were literally honeycombed with tunnels made by the little blind animals. Piggie soon got down to business and in a short time had rooted out a good-sized mole. The farmer's shepherd dog was nearby and soon made short work of it. A partnership was at once formed between the hog and the collie, the former being content to root the moles out of their trenches, while the dog killed them.

Piggie seemed to enjoy the sport as well as the dog, and Ebling believes his pair of mole hunters will soon rid the field of the pests. They must complete their task before the corn is planted, however, as the rooting hog would destroy as much corn as would the moles.

Brooklyn, June 12.—Brooklyn defeated St. Louis here today 3 to 1. Bescher's attempt in the sixth inning to catch Get's long fly which was curving across the left field foul line failed. Bescher was standing on fair ground as the ball grazed his finger tips, Getz getting a double and Johnston, who was on second, scoring the winning run. Hits by Cutshaw and O'Mara scored Getz.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Philadelphia secured only three hits off Mamaux in six innings today, but all figured in the scoring of runs and the home team defeated Pittsburg 2 to 1.

BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED, GENERALLY UNFIT

A Wine Glass Full of Tollo Concentrated Water Will Wash Out the Bile and Relieve Your Constipation in Half an Hour

Our present mode of living makes bad livers. Living indoors and eating rich food puts more work on the liver than it can do. The bile tubes become choked and force the bile back into the system, causing gas, heart-burn, coated tongue, constipation, dizziness, nervousness, headaches and stomach trouble.

A third of a tumbler of Tollo Water taken in a glass of plain water before breakfast gives quickest relief. The natural properties of this water stimulate the liver to greater activity, without the sickening, nauseating or weakening effect produced by calomel and other strong drugs.

It really gives the liver a bath. It dissolves the waste, washes out the bile tubes and expels the waste and sour bile from the system in just a few minutes.

Get a 15-cent bottle from your druggist and take a little each morning for a few days. After the first day the complexion will begin to lose its yellow shade and in a few days your natural healthy color will return.

After you have thoroughly cleaned the bile from the system, an occasional wine glass full of Tollo Water before breakfast will keep you feeling fine. You can eat what you like without suffering; your complexion will stay pink and healthy; those dull, tired days will be gone forever, because your liver will have the help it needs to expel the bile and prevent its being absorbed into the system.

Dawson Springs, the home of Tollo Water, has been a famous health resort for years. It was through the desire of those who have visited the springs and regained their health that Tollo Water has been concentrated and put on sale at drug stores.

TOP O' THE MORNING.

When the crisis comes in life—as it surely will—we need more than human help. —CHAPMAN.

Salt Creek is the same old creek.

The Americanism of most of them is what they can get out of it.

Don't write history while people who participated in it are still living to tell it a different way.

One reason why Ex-Justice Hughes will be trusted by New York interests is that he has been in New York politics before.

Waffles are all right, of course, but they have a way of never going around. That's what makes some people 'spise waffles.

Teddy said he wouldn't run against Hughes if the latter would talk right, or words to the same effect, so the Ex-Justice is doing his best to talk right.

The favorite sons who were placed in nomination at the G. O. P. convention at Chicago acted like good boys. Nevertheless, the zone of their influence was too far away from Wall Street.

A fellow says he is always short after he finishes his strawberry shortcake season. Then he gets shorter, owing to the fact that he goes right on into the huckleberry shortcake season.

Teddy kept on wanting Hughes to say something, but Hughes waited till the last minute and then said something that had more effect than several months of rant has had during the past year.

The possibility that Hughes might be elected President isn't near so bad as the thought that the Republican party would be restored to power so it could resume its system of tariff graft for special interests.

Talking about the cost of running for office under the primary system. How would the expenditures of Bickett and Daughtridge this year look alongside the total spent by Horne, Kitchin and Craig in 1908 for a convention nomination?

Of course, "North Carolina sits at the head of the table," but it's the blow that's almost killed mediocrity and commonality. Their noses are out of joint to stay. Some of them have been cut loose from the idea that the navy belonged to 'em.

As an answer to the argument that a primary bars men of small means from running for office, it is now pointed out that in the State-wide primary of June 3 the candidates with the least money running for State offices won in most cases over those with greater financial means at their disposal.

The Democratic national convention will assemble in St. Louis tomorrow and it is going to listen to a keynote address that will give us a glimpse of the really constructive work that has been done for the people by the Democracy. Facts will count more than the hot air that some people seem to take with so much seriousness.

An American girl in recommending herself says she is descended from the royal family of England. However, the royal family of England has long ago given out the statement that it is not responsible for Americans who claim kin with them. The proper caper would be to make out like royalty descended from us.

Most all of the objections the Republicans have to the re-election of Wilson are the best of reasons why the people should keep him at Washington four years longer. Among those who hate Wilson and want a change are the special interests which have had to look out for themselves during the past three years. However, they have done a good munitions business for two years, but are not sure how long this business will keep up.

THE PRIMARY PERMANENT.

Since North Carolina held her first legalized State-wide all-party primary on June 3, evidence has been accumulating to indicate that it is a permanent institution in this State. Some minor changes in the machinery of the primary may be necessary, but the institution itself seems to have established its permanence by the results of its first try-out. Far less opposition to such a primary has been heard since it was given a trial than before, and today the sentiment among Democrats especially throughout the State seems to be general satisfaction with the primary.

No other circumstance perhaps more aptly illustrates the difference between the primary and the old convention system of making nominations than the difficulty of getting the returns from the primary as compared with the ready ease with which the result of a nominating convention is made known to the world. This difference perhaps impresses newspaper men and candidates more than anybody else. Take, for instance, the matter of nominating State officers. Had they been nominated June 3 in a State convention the papers would have announced the result next morning. As it was, it took practically all of last week to get the results of the primary as to all State officers. With a convention we would have had to await only the action of a few hundred delegates, sometimes under the control of the politicians and in some instances many of them there at the expense of certain candidates, while with a primary we had to wait to hear from the people—and more than one hundred thousand of them participated—in every nook and corner of the State. The same circumstances attended the nomination in congressional and judicial districts.

In the primary the individual voter, no matter where he lives, has an opportunity to cast a ballot for each office and have his ballot counted as cast, and nobody knows how he votes if he doesn't care to have it known. In the convention the individual voter has no voice, comparatively speaking, and may be astonished to read in the papers next day that somebody has been nominated for attorney general or commissioner of agriculture that he never heard of before. How many times have men been nominated for State offices in conventions who could not have carried their own congressional districts in a primary? How many times have men been nominated in Congressional conventions who were the choice of a very small minority of the voters of the district when the convention met?

Under the primary system, nominations cannot be controlled by a "machine," nor can any "dark horse" win in the race. If there ever was a law enacted for the benefit of the rank and file of the voters, the primary law is one, and therefore the rank and file should be the last people on earth to oppose the primary. Thus far, we have heard no complaint from that source. A few weeks ago, certain Republican papers undertook to make capital against the primary on the ground that certain individuals were denied the right to vote in the primary because they refused to state their party affiliation. It was loudly heralded as "disfranchisement" of free men, but those Republican papers knew full well that the primary law denies to no man his constitutional right to vote as he sees fit in the election in November, and that no Republican should be allowed to vote in a Democratic primary or vice versa. After all, how many men who were not allowed to vote in the primary on June 3 would have had a voice in the nominations under the convention system? How many Republicans could have voted in a Democratic convention?

There has been some talk of the tediousness of the job of voting in the primary, because of the large number of names on the ballot, but any man who stops to think a minute must realize that the difference between the primary and the convention system on this point is that in the primary the voter himself takes the time and trouble to vote for a candidate for each of the offices to be filled, while under the convention system he leaves the voting to somebody else. It is purely and simply a matter of doing the voting himself instead of sending George or somebody else up to the convention to do it.

The primary, of course, will not have been fully tested in all its phases and effects until the November election. For at least two years enactment of a State-wide legalized primary law was postponed on account of the plea made in the Legislature of 1913 that it would result in sending to the General Assembly Republicans to take the place of a few individual Democratic members from counties that are normally Republican, but who were allowed to occupy seats there by the grace of Republicans who split their ticket and voted for them in the general election. In other words, Democrats who were under heavier obligations to Republicans than they were to their own party feared that they could not continue to represent their counties in the Legislature under the primary system. Well, it is a question whether the State is better off with a few Republican members in the Legislature or with a few Democrats in their stead who must acknowledge their obligation to the Republicans for allowing them to occupy their seats.

It is quite probable that an effort will be made when the Legislature meets again to amend the primary law. This may be necessary, but it must be kept in mind that when the question is once opened there will be certain political interests standing by ready to take advantage of the occasion to have such amendments made as will destroy in large measure the effectiveness of the primary and to render it unpopular if possible. If an operation is necessary to make the primary more perfect, let it be performed, but let the surgeons be on their guard and mighty careful about who is standing by or participating, lest some foreign matter be stealthily dropped into the incision to cause trouble later.

THE MARKETING PROBLEM

Of the 162 agricultural courses of study outlined in the State A. & M. College at West Raleigh for 1916, one will be devoted to marketing of farm products. It is a step in the right direction, but instead of one six-weeks' course in this important subject, the future farmers of the State should have the opportunity to select one or more from among a half-dozen or more such courses, and they should extend throughout the whole year.

For 50 years or more the agricultural colleges and the Federal Department of Agriculture have been bending their energies to show the farmer how "to grow two blades of grass where one grew before," and have paid little or no attention to the question as to whether the extra blades of grass would not spell economic ruin for the farmers who grew them, owing to their lack of knowledge of how and when they could be marketed. The phrase "market price" is a hollow mockery, and to get a crop to the salable stage is but half the battle. The other half is to market it to advantage.

The whole country is waking up to the need of more detailed attention to marketing and distribution of fruits and vegetables and other farm produce to the end that the consumer shall not be compelled to pay an extortionate price for what he buys and also in order that the farmer may receive a larger proportion of the profits, the larger share of which now goes to middlemen. While there is no way of ascertaining the exact figures, the national Department of Agriculture is not far wrong when it says that the farmer receives but one-third the retail cost of what he produces. In other words it costs 65 cents to get a dollar's worth of produce from the farm to the consumer.

The nearest approach to a remedy for this unfortunate and wasteful method of marketing is organized and co-operative selling by farmers. They could in many cases sell their products through a sales-agency, as manufacturers do.

Now suppose these farmers arranged with a competent salesman to do their selling work for them on a salary, how much more economical that would prove. Would it cost them 65 cents out of every dollar's worth sold? The answer is that where co-operative associations have been formed among farmers, they have had to pay nothing like such a price for the marketing of their products.

Another thing, under such a system the grading and standardizing of products would be brought about. When farm produce is sold promiscuously the tendency is always for the buyer to offer only the lowest price for such produce, whether it be eggs, potatoes or what not. Organized marketing will give the individual farmer credit for his produce according to the grade he produces. Co-operation will be much more profitable to all concerned than the law of unrestricted individualistic competition now practiced by most farmers.

WHY IS THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY?

Why is the Progressive party any more? It was organized four years ago and adopted high-sounding principles which its founders declared were fundamental and everlasting. However, the party has held its second convention and has failed to place its principles and a presidential candidate before the people of the United States.

We find the Armageddon party subordinating all its social justice and other fine features to the purely mercenary principles represented in the protective tariff policy of the G. O. P. It is difficult to understand the morality of a party which surrenders to the national Republican party for the sole purpose of uniting the flesh pot vote of the country. Really, has the Progressive party anything to offer to the people but its idolatry of a man and his own personal political aspirations? Has it ever had anything else, indeed? When the chance to get their man disappears, how quick they drop their principles under the hope of placing the special interest party back in power! What becomes of social justice since when the plan now is to give the protected interests another chance to enrich themselves by exploiting the people?

What if Associate Justice Hughes does lead the special interest party when its main object is to get more good pickings for the crowd which will put up millions to get it back into power? The object of the combination with the stand-pat party is too plain, and it ought not to fool anybody that they parade Americanism and preparedness. The same party spent nearly as much money on the United States naval and military equipment as Germany spent on her powerful sea and land forces, and yet the Republicans turned over a pitiful lot of preparedness to the Democratic administration about three years ago. So they expect the people to trust a party which spent the country's money and didn't have much to show for it in the way of an army and navy.

The standpatters and observing politicians of all parties know the progressive party has been euchred by the Protective Tariff party and that possibly 2,000,000 of the 4,000,000 Progressive voters cannot be delivered over to the G. O. P. on any such a deal as was arranged at Chicago. It is agreed that the best thing about the stand-pat party is Judge Hughes, but good bait has covered up many a dangerous hook. If Progressives are going to take the bait and be turned over as part of the deal, the Republicans stand a chance of electing the president. However, it is believed that the Progressives will divide their vote and assure the re-election of President Wilson.

AN IMPORTANT CONVENTION

While the Democratic National Convention which assembles it St. Louis tomorrow is not of a nature to create the speculative interest that obtained with respect to the two conventions held last week in Chicago, because the chief results are known in advance, while nobody knew in advance what was going to happen at Chicago, nevertheless the proceedings of the convention at St. Louis will be of tremendous importance. Of course, Wilson and Marshall will be nominated for president and vice president respectively, so there can be no speculation on that point, but there will be much interest and great importance in the platform adopted and the principal speeches delivered.

It will be the occasion for taking stock of the assets of the Democratic party, setting forth the record of its administration and declaring its policy for the future, all of which are of great interest and importance. The achievements of the present administration have been so many and of such tremendous importance that we are liable to fail to appreciate the magnificence of the record as a whole until it is presented to us in concise and collective form. This will be done in speeches and platform at the St. Louis convention and to a great many people it will prove an eye-opener.

The Progressive convention at Chicago did not know any better than to be enthusiastic, but the Bull Moose stayed home because he realized that somebody had dealt the coliseum players a stand pat hand. As soon as Teddy put in a telephone at Oyster Bay, a dray horse got suspicious and almost knew that he was not likely to put in his appearance at Chicago auditorium. The Progressives did not know any better, but kept yelling till it was almost time to fall dead when the Colonel indicated that he had only a deuce to start with and only drew another of the same kind. It was exceedingly interesting to watch Colonel Roosevelt play the game, but it was funny to see his partners imagining that they were in it.

CURRENT COMMENT

Statesville has started a crusade for punctuality. The Landmark, following the suggestion of W. L. Gilbert, proposes to let those who come late, under the mistaken impression that it is fashinable to do so, understand distinctly that it is quite the contrary and that they are winning the contempt, instead of the admiraion, of those who came at the proper time. It is a fact that half of the people spend a great portion of their time waiting on the other half. Sometimes the parties of the first part decide to turn the tables and let the other man do the waiting. If it is highly necessary that a meeting shall be called to order promptly at 8:30, the only way to assure it is to announce it for 8 o'clock.—Charlotte Observer.

That the ordinary tin can and glass jar would have anything to do with the solution of rural life problems, unless seriously considered, would take rather a stretch of one's imagination, and yet when taken in connection with the work and effect of what the canning club girls of the State are doing, it can be readily seen that they are potent agencies. In many phases of manufacturing the by-products play an important part; in fact, it is said that in some lines the profit is derived solely from the by-products. Now, in the work of the canning clubs, a great industry is being developed which means a substantial saving to the State and many thousands of dollars to the girls engaged in the work. Primarily this work was inaugurated to turn waste into dollars and to develop an industry that would add to the material prosperity of the ruralist, but a study of results will show that it has not only succeeded admirably along this line but has had far more reaching effects in what might be termed a by-product. In the work of canning, the girl becomes a real factor, not only in her own home but in the community, as the work necessarily draws the girls of the community in close touch and while engaged in the work of making money they are developing the social side of life, making it broader and fuller, one of the things to make life self-sufficient in rural communities, the very point which the Community Service Bureau, established a few months ago, will stress during the next six months. From this grain of social progress other forms are sure to grow. —Raleigh News and Observer.

In the rather superficial and commonplace keynote address which Senator Harding, of Ohio, made as temporary chairman of the Republican National Convention appears one statement which must be considered as a fine, if unconscious, tribute to the statesmanship of Woodrow Wilson. After speaking of the universal upheaval produced by the European war and the "embarrassments in our foreign relations as difficult as those which the individual citizen experiences whose every neighbor is involved in deadly quarrel," he continued: "Amid these conditions has stood this unarmed giant, typifying the American republic, neutral and sane, to whom the neutral nations have turned for leadership. Our national unselfishness had been proved, our devotion to humanity had been established, our committal to international justice had long been proclaimed." "Neutral and sane!" Yes, thanks to the wise diplomacy of the President and Secretary Lansing. Heaven only knows where the United States would be standing today if the unbalanced Rough Rider had been the national pilot. If the American people understand their own affairs they will keep the giant, no longer unarmed, just where he is today.—Philadelphia Record.

The new packing plant at Andalusia, Alabama, is open for business; that is, the receiving of hogs and cattle for slaughter. The Advertiser joins the people of central and southern Alabama in the well-founded hope that this new industry in Alabama will enjoy that full measure of success deserved by the effort and aim of the business men and farmers who have built it. The opening of the Andalusia packing plant is a significant event. It marks a new era in the livestock industry of the Central South. It brings closer together our farming and our business interests. It stands for the courage, far-sightedness and initiative of the business men of Southeast Alabama. It was no small task for a group of business men and farmers to build one of the most modern packing plants in America. In fact, it was a great task, it has been nobly achieved. Now that the plant is finished—a plant of concrete and steel—it will require a large sum to run it, and the putting up of this money is almost as large a task as the building of the plant. The builders of the packing house realized, as all of us must realize sooner or later, that no country can build up on a permanent basis without livestock and that an at-home cash market for livestock is the best way to encourage the stock raising industry. They looked to the future of Alabama when every farmer will have some hogs and chickens and a few head of cattle to market every season. The new packing plant at Andalusia today offers our farmers a market for their livestock every day in the year. It offers cash for hogs, cattle, sheep and poultry. It deserves the support of the farmers, and the best support that can be given it is the selling of livestock to it as regularly as possible. Not only does the new packing plant give a cash market for Alabama livestock, but it will reduce the amount of Western meat brought into this territory. It is taken that the meats and the by-products of the Andalusia plant will be sold largely in the South. The money obtained for these meats and by-products will be kept in the South and a large part of it will go back to our farmers for more stock on the hoof. Thus the Andalusia packing plant not only is a great stimulant to Alabama's livestock industry, but it is an effective institution for keeping our money in circulation among our own people.—Montgomery Advertiser.

WORK OF HEALTH OFFICER.

One Man Says He Wants to Live in County Where Health is Guarded.

"There's no little comfort," said a man, recently, "in living in a county where the health of its citizens is well looked after. I used to live," he said, "in a county where there was no attention whatever given to health matters, and the people themselves believed in those old fogy superstitions about keeping off diseases that are almost as bad as witchcraft, and, what is worse, they practiced them and are still at it, from what I hear. How are they to help it? That county doesn't spend one cent to teach the people how to prevent disease, much less pay a health officer to look after their health and keep them well.

As a matter of fact," said the speaker, "those people, most of them, are still afraid of night air to the extent that they believe it causes sickness, instead of prevents it, and flies are the same congenial companions to them that they have always been. If an epidemic of any kind breaks out, typhoid fever, for instance, it runs its course and takes its toll without anything being done to check it.

"I know the difference," the speaker said, "in living in a county where your health and the health of your family, even to the health of your children at school, is looked after, and in a county where such is not the case. Why, the whole-time health officer of the county in which I now live has vaccinated everybody who would be, free of charge, against smallpox and typhoid fever, and has shown us how to get rid of malaria —so what have we to worry over, if we do our part to keep well? I'd like to know that I would always live in a county which employs a whole-time health officer"

THE CENTRIFUGAL GUN

Might Prove Another Revolutionary American Invention.

(From the San Francisco Chronicle.)

So many devices "calculated to revolutionize warfare" and to supplant all previous implements of destruction have come and gone without effecting any appreciable changes, it is wise to be cautious in regard to the report of the invention of a new powderless, smokeless and noiseless gun alleged to be more deadly than anything in use by the European belligerents.

On the other hand, it would be more than foolish to believe such report merely on the ground that the weapon is an American invention. Save in the hour of need, as when we produced the Monitor, we have no specialized in instruments of war, but our resourcefulness is such that the mastery shown in manufactures and the other arts of peace could be readily diverted to the arts of defense and offense.

In all the alarmist talk of invasion and conquest by a foreign power the most striking omission is mention of the hundred million brains which would be at once set working upon defensive devices. All the surprises would not be sprung by one side, and that the invader's: In the nature of things, we would not rely upon our inventors—many would be needed to shoulder the arms already made—but applied mechanics would be certain to play an important part in the production of new weapons.

As for the gun itself, its centrifugal process is a reversion to the primitive sling-shot, to the means whereby David slew Goliath, but that is no cause to doubt its efficiency. The reaction of a garden hose suggested the turbine, than which there is no more rapid, powerful and efficient form of the steam engine.

It is a big new principle as applied to artillery, and if the Stanton gun, as it will probably be called, is not an immediate success it may pave the way for the perfect weapon.

HEALTH IS WEALTH
by John B. Huber, A.M., M.D.

Better health than good medicine.—SPANISH PROVERB.

Varicose Veins.

SUCH veins are permanently thickened and enlarged, as the result of gradual obstruction to the return flow of the blood from the venous system toward the heart. In women (who suffer much more than men from this trouble) the pressure of the womb upon the veins of the lower extremities while having borne several children gives rise to varicose veins. In occupations (such as that of the cook) which require standing about a good deal, this is a very frequent trouble. The pressure of gradually growing tumors also occasions "varicosities," as the doctor calls them. Also in diseases of the heart, lungs and kidneys, in which the circulation is poor, the veins are apt to enlarge. Almost all ulcers of the leg arise out of varicose veins that have been neglected. And the serious disease phlebitis (inflammation of one or more veins) may result from constant friction against varicose veins.

Such veins stand out under the skin as bluish, knotty, winding cords. They flatten when pressure is made on them and when the sufferer is lying down. Such enlarged veins may exist for many years without giving any trouble, though at times they will give a feeling of weight and of dull pain in the members. Then the skin will become inflamed, itchy and eczematous, and the veins will become swollen and hard. This tempts to scratching, and scratching leads to sores; and so the trouble progresses to varicose ulcers, which are slow and difficult to heal—never heal, not in the leg anyway, unless the sufferer takes to bed and thus relieves the extremity of the venous pressure upon it. And old varicose veins have been known to rupture and to give rise to serious, even fatal hemorrhages.

Slight varicosities can be ignored, or they should have elastic stockings or flannel bands worn over them. The general health must be attended to; especially must constipation be avoided. Hemorrhage from a varicose vein can be stopped until the doctor comes by pressure below the site of the hemorrhage—that at the farther side from the heart. Meanwhile the patient lies on his back, the foot being raised on a pillow. As soon as a varicose vein gives any trouble a doctor should be consulted. Extensive varicose veins must be treated by a surgeon, who will tie, above and below them (the patient being under an anaesthetic), and remove the intervening varicosities.

NEURITIS.

G. W. J. writes: I am interested in your daily writings. I have severe pains in my left hip leg, half way between the knee and the ankle. It feels like severe electric bitings, with some ache to it. There is also pain, without the bitings on the left side, just below the hip. I am now taking syrup of hypophosphites; it seems to give me some relief. Doctors pronounce my trouble neuritis. I have also had a plaster on my leg, and one on my hip, as a bandage, thinking they might be of some value. Had I better drop the hypophosphites and go to a doctor again? I do not have much trouble except after being done for the day—only light pain in the late afternoon and at night. This gets very severe after sitting down and then getting up. Yours for success in your noble work.

Answer: I consider your doctors have made the right diagnosis. I have written a group of four articles on the different kinds of neuritis, which were recently published, in which you will find practically all the causes set down. You must find among these that which applies to your case. And then that cause must be removed. This is essential to the cure of any disease. The hypophosphites are good medicines, but not of much value in your trouble. And plasters may relieve, but will not cure. Go to a good doctor, whom you can trust; then do not change, but follow his directions faithfully. Most cases of neuritis are curable; but not in a week; rather it takes months, even years. All disorders of the nervous system take a long time to be rid of. Thank you for your kindly expressions.

RACE FOR RECORDER EXCEEDINGLY CLOSE

Harriss Has Majority of Eight Votes Over Empie.

Sheriff S. P. Cowan Defeated by Mr. George C. Jackson in Yesterday's Primary—Burton Defeats Peschau for Solicitor.

With a majority of but eight votes, according to the unofficial returns from yesterday's Democratic primary in New Hanover county, Magistrate George Harriss defeated Recorder Brooke G. Empie for that office, while Mr. George C. Jackson won out over Sheriff S. P. Cowan, by a majority of 149 votes, and E. T. Burton, Esq., was nominated for county solicitor over the present incumbent, George L. Peschau, Esq., by a majority of 633 votes.

It was soon apparent after the returns began coming in last night that County Solicitor Peschau had been defeated by his opponent, but it was not certain until the last precinct was heard from about 10 o'clock as to who was ahead for the recordership. Recorder Empie received a total vote of 1,325 votes while Justice Harriss received 1,333 votes. Owing to the closeness of the vote for Recorder ,it is expected that a second count will be asked for in order to be sure that there are no errors.

Sheriff S. P. Cowan received 1,282 votes while Mr. George C. Jackson received 1,431 votes. Sheriff Cowan carried the Second, Third and Fourth Wards in the city by good majorities and also received a majority in three of the six county precincts, while Mr. Jackson carried the First Ward by a small majority and the Fifth and Sixth by big majorities.

Recorder Brooke G. Empie carried the Second, Fourth and Sixth wards, while Justice Harriss carried the First and the Fifth by a small margin and all of the county precincts by small majorities.

The big votes received by Mr. Burton for county solicitor was a surprise even to his supporters. They had expected him to win by a good majority but had hardly hoped that it would be so large. Every precinct in the county returned a majority for him with the exception of the Second Ward, which gave a small majority for Solicitor Peschau.

Messrs. J. J. Moore and G. W. Smith were nominated for magistrate for Wilmington township, receiving 1,319 and 923 votes respectively, while Mr. J. W. Smith received 716 votes.

The highest number of votes cast was for sheriff, the total for this office being 2,713. This is only 200 less than were cast in the first primary. The total number of votes cast for Recorder was 2,658, while 2,671 votes were cast for county solicitor.

The primary was an unusually quiet one considering the great interest that the friends of the different candidates manifested. There was no evidence of anything unseemly and in the city the police had a very quiet and uneventful day.

The returns were all in by 10 o'clock, having been made at the Court House where the County Board of Elections composed of Chairman C. W. Woodward, Secretary E. Piner and Mr. William Struthers, Jr., met to receive them unofficially. The returns will be canvassed officially today.

The friends of the winning candidates were jubilant last night when they learned that they had been successful in the primary. The "losers" took it in good spirits, realizing that they had put up a good fight and bowed to the inevitable with becoming grace and a philosophical manner. The celebration by the winners was of a quiet nature and there was little to indicate that a hard fought primary election had ended.

There was much interest in the primary and while many gathered at the Court House to get the returns another throng was in front of The Star office to get the returns, while still others used the telephone to good advantage. The returns came in promptly and there was no delay in finding out the results. The polls closed at 7:24 o'clock and by 8 o'clock Winter Park and the Sixth Ward had been heard from. By 8:30 o'clock all the country precincts had reported. The Second Ward, which polled a total of 480 votes, was the last to be heard from, this being the largest voting precinct in the county.

Mr. George C. Jackson, who defeated Sheriff Cowan, is a young man, who is connected with the printing house of Jackson & Bell, of which his father is the senior member. He has a great many friends in the city and county. Sheriff Cowan, who has held the office for a number of years, has made one of the most popular officers the county has ever had.

E. T. Burton, Esq., who won over Solicitor George L. Peschau, is a young attorney, who has been practicing in this city for the last several years. That he will make a good prosecuting attorney goes without saying. In defeating Solicitor Peschau, recognized as one of the ablest prosecuting attorneys in this section of the State, he demonstrated that the people have confidence in his ability.

Recorder Empie has held this office for the last two years while Justice Harriss has been a magistrate in Wilmington and United States Commissioner for a long term of years. Both men have had long experience in public life and are well qualified for the office of Recorder. The close race between the two men is a splendid testimonial to the ability of both of them.

The complete returns from each precinct appear elsewhere in today's paper.

ROBBERS GET BUSY AGAIN

After Taking Short Vacation and Raid Several Places, Including Warren's Cigar Store—The List.

Culminating in the robbery yesterday morning or late Sunday night of Warren's Cigar Store, No. 114 North Front street, thieves and purse snatchers have resumed operations from which until the past few days they had given Wilmington a season of comparative rest. These robberies have been reported to the police:

The Warren Cigar Store was entered by robbers who made their way up the stairs of the bowling alley entrance on Front street and thence into the store, breaking the lock on the door leading into the store proper. Once in the store, the robbers, or may be robber, broke into two of the cash drawers in the store and secured $8 or $9 in small change, one dollar of which was in pennies. It is believed that nothing else was taken unless possibly cigars. No box goods were missed. The robber did not touch the money in the pool cash register, which he probably overlooked on account of its small size. It contained about $3. He robbed both the cigar stand and soda fountain cash drawers.

Mrs. C. R. Boddie and Mrs. M. S. Smith, who reside at No. 807 Chestnut street, reported to the police that they were stopped about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night on the southwest corner of Fourth and Market streets by two negroes, who attempted to snatch Mrs. Smith's hand satchel. The strap on the hand bag broke, and when the ladies screamed the negroes became frightened owing to the proximity of passers-by and took to their heels. The hand bag, which Mrs. Smith carried and which the negro failed to get possession of, contained about $20.

Mrs. Rogers, of No. 211 Walnut street, reported to the police that late Saturday night or early Sunday morning a thief had entered the hen house on her premises and stole 10 chickens, of the Plymouth Rock breed. Officer Leon George made an investigation, but the thief left no clue.

George Tyson, colored, of No. 705 Bladen street, reported that his house was entered by a burglar Saturday night or early Sunday morning, who secured $6 belonging to Jim Green, colored, a lodger, and $1.05 from himself. Entrance was secured through a side window. Officer W. H. Kermon took the dogs to the scene of the robbery, but they were unable to pick up the right trail.

POLICE CAPTURE TWO COLORED MEN IN STORE

Of Shrier & Solomon At Front And Princess Streets

Officers Surrounded Building Early This Morning—Found Several Suit Cases Packed—Third Negro Made His Escape.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning the police ,learning from one of the members of the force that robbers were at work in Shrier & Solomon's store on the southwest corner of Front and Princess streets, surrounded the building and captured two of the three negroes, who had already packed six big suit cases with valuable clothing and other merchandise. The two captured gave their names as John Allen and Johnnie Johnson.

The third negro escaped by making a break out the back door, striking Officer W. H. Rivenbark's pistol partially out of his hand. The officer regained his grip on the pistol and shot at the flying figure as it passed around the corner of the building. Officer W. H. Kerman took up the chase and fired once at the fugitive as he passed up the alley between Warren's Cigar Store and the postoffice. He kept in sight of the negro until ,the latter ran between The Star office and the Home Savings Bank building, where he was lost to sight.

Officer Rivenbark discovered the robbers at work while trying the back door of the store. After finding that the rear door was securely fastened he stopped for a moment and lit his pipe, and as he did so he saw a shadow pass across the rear door. He stepped over to Officer W. C. Moore and had him notify the police station to send men to surround the place. In a few minutes, Sergeant H. W. Howell and officers M. C. Gray and W. H. Kermon were on the scene.

As Sergeant Howell and Officer Gray made their way in the front door, one of the negroes inside lifted the bar at the rear door, where Officer Rivenbark was on guard and struck the officer a heavy blow which took effect in the latter's stomach and on his pistol hand causing him for a moment to lose his grip on the weapon. At the same time he dashed past him.

The other two men attempted to follow but Officer Rivenbark advanced on them with his pistol and drove them back into the building where they were captured by Sergeant Howell and Officer Gray.

The suit cases which the negroes had packed up were taken to the police station, where it was found they were chock full of a valuable assortment of hats, coats, pants, sweaters and handkerchiefs.

The police state that they believe that a negro who was employed at the store let the other negroes in, or at least arranged for them to get in without breaking their way. The police say they know the negro who escaped.

It is believed that the robbers intended to wait until about 4:45 o'clock, when the day force goes on duty to make their get-away down the back alleys along the wharf.

RAIN MAKES CAMP MUDDY

Life in the Training Camp at Plattsburg, Described by Wilmingtonians.

Owing to the heavy rains of the past week, the military training camp for civilians at Plattsburg, N. Y., is in an awful condition from the mud, according to letters from two Wilmington young men, who are spending a month there.

"Yesterday we didn't have much to do," they write in letters home, "as the day was taken up with new men coming in. There are now nearly 2,000 'rookies' in camp with about 12 companies of 110 men each. With all these and 1,200 'regulars' we have quite an army in this vicinity. Today was a fine clear day, and we have gotten well under way. Started on the parade ground this morning, came off two hours for lunch and were back again from 1:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Most of the men are pretty well fagged out now as you may imagine. Had a medical examination and attended a lecture on the care of the body. In my company of 135 men there are about 50 who have had experience in drilling, so we will have little trouble in breaking in the 'rookies,' to the manual of arms and minor tactics. One of us has signed up to take cavalry and one in the signal corps. Could not both take cavalry or artillery because of scarcity of hours. We succeeded in landing in the same company but were placed in separate tents with only the street between us. I am tenting with two men from Boston, one fro m St. Louis, one from Atlantic City, two from New York City and the other from a small town in this State.

"There is such a splendid class of men here, congenial bunch and the whole crowd is just great. The water is so cold up here that we haven't tried to swim yet. Shower baths are plenty cold enough. The food is good, served in camp style but handled entirely by the regulars, so is better than in the usual camp."

GOING TO BE PROBLEM

Thousands of Visitors Coming for Good Roads Convention.

"The success of the good roads convention here is more than assured," said a prominent young business man of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday "and the only question now is, how are we going to entertain the thousands of visitors expected here on that occasion."

"We are now at work preparing a directory of all available accommodations to be had on that week and the people of Wilmington must arise to the emergency," he went on to say. Reports from everywhere are that the people are coming by train, by automobile and every other conveyance known. It now is simply a question of taking care of the people after they come.

A member of the committee said yesterday that persons from out of the city who are contemplating attended the convention should make their reservations at once or write to some friend or business correspondent in Wilmington so that they might find ne inconvenience after gettig here. The suggestio seems a good one.

MR. GEO. W. HUGGINS DEAD

Well Known Jeweler Passed Away Yesterday Morning at Residence. Funeral This Afternoon.

Mr. George W. Huggins, 75 years old, who was an officer in the Confederate Army during the War Between the States, and who since 1869 had conducted the jewelry business at No. 105 Market street, passed away yesterday morning at 11:35 o'clock at his residence, No. 412 Market street, after an illness of three weeks. Death was caused by Bright's disease.

In spite of his advanced age, Mr. Huggins up until about three weeks ago when he was confined to his bed from the attack which resulted in his death, continued actively in charge of his jewelry business.

The news of Mr. Huggins' death came as a great shock to his many friends in this city. He was possessed of many admirable traits of character and a kindly disposition that endeared him to all with whom he came in contact either in a social or business way.

Mr. Huggins was a member of Cape Fear Camp, No. 254, United Confederate Veterans. At the beginning of the War Between the States, he enlisted as a private with the Wilmington Rifle Guards and rose to the rank of second lieutenant in this organization, which was later assigned as Company I, to the 18th North Carolina Regiment.

Lieutenant Huggins was born in Onslow county in 1840, and was engaged in the jewelry business even before the war, although he did not found the Market street establishment until 1869. He was the son of the late Luke B. Huggins, a native of the same county. Mr. Huggins lived at New Bern for a time, but during his early boyhood removed to Wilmington, where he has since made his home.

Mr. Huggins was promoted to first corporal in his company in 1861, and to junior second lieutenant in April, 1862. He served with distinction with his regiment in the Army of Northern Virginia, and took part in the battles of Hanover Court House, Mechanicsville, Cold Harbor and Malvern Hill. At the close of the bloody seven-days struggle before Richmond, he received a serious wound in the foot at Harrison's Landing during the progress of an engagement with the enemy, which disabled him until July, 1863.

He then returned to his regiment in Virginia, but was soon detailed for duty in the quartermaster's department at Wilmington, where he remained until the city was evacuated, following which he made his way to Johnston's army and remained until its surrender, when he was paroled.

He was married in 1867 to Miss Lizzie Allen, daughter of Mr. W. H. Allen, of Laurinburg. Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Mr. Henry Allen Huggins, who has been associated with his father in business here for the past 12 years, and Mr. George Allen, of Scott's Hill. Surviving also is an only sister, Mrs. S. G. Hall, of Wilmington.

Funeral services for Mr. Huggins will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the residence. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. J. M. Wells, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. General James I. Metts, commander of the orth Carolina Division of Confederate Veterans, has ordered the members of Cape Fear Camp to assemble at the W. L. I. armory at 4:30 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral in a body. Interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

MISS TROUTT DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINS CLUB MEMBERS.

Miss Anna Troutt, general secretary of the Wilmington Y. W. C. A., delightfully entertained Friday evening the members of the Blue Ridge club at an informal supper which was served on the lawn at the association building. Tables attractively decorated with cut flowers and candles had been arranged on the lawn. The soft glow from Japanese lanterns which had been hung on the trees in the yard made a very pretty effect. A delicious salad course followed by ice cream and cake was served after which the club had a business session.

It was decided that in order to take care of the overflow during the Baptist Seaside Assembly to open a cottage near Cooleemee cottage at Wrightsville Beach which will be known as Blue Ridge cottage. This cottage is to be opened especially for the Assembly. The proceeds from the rental of rooms will be devoted to sending delegates to the Blue Ridge Conference which meets near Black Mountain the latter part of July.

Delegates to attend this conference were elected as follows: Miss Catherine Russell, president of the club; Miss Annie Williams, Miss Mary Cumming, Miss Louise Sholar, Miss Veda Russ and Mrs. Maude Foy. Besides these delegates, Miss Ruth Brown, assistant secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will also attend the Conference, and it is also expected that a number of the members of the board of directors will also attend. Anyone contemplating attending the conference is requested to confer with the general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. The cost of the entire trip, including railroad fare, will be $35. This will be distinctively a Y. W. C. A. conference, teaching Y. W. C. A. methods. There will also be Bible and mission study classes.

TWO SOCIAL AFFAIRS OF MUCH INTEREST IN LUMBERTON

Lumberton, N. C., June 12.—During the district meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy in Lumberton last week there were two social events which added much to the enjoyment of the visitors.

The first was a beautiful reception at the spacious home of Mrs. N. A. McLean, given by the local chapter, when formality was laid aside and the guests lingered till a late hour, indulging in pleasant chats, reviewing Confederate relics displayed in the drawing room, and enjoying the sweetest of music rendered by some of Lumberton's cultured musicians, and by Miss Kitty Poole, of Clayton, who delighted her hearers with her unusually beautiful voice, whose singing was also one of the most enjoyable features of the business sessions at the opera house on Friday morning and afternoon.

At Mrs. McLean's the guests were greeted and ushered into the different rooms by Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Jenkins Misses Mary McNeill, Rowland, Russell, Proctor, Agnes McLean, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Shaw and others.

In the receiving line was the hostess, Mrs. N. A. McLean; Mrs. Proctor, President of the local chapter, U. D. C.; Mrs. W. M. Mrs. W. M. Creasy, of Wilmington, State recording secretary of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, attended the district meeting at Lumberton last week which was pronounced a great success. She made a talk, telling of what the U. D. C. stands for, and made a splendid impression, according to reports received here. The members of the Lumberton chapter and their friends left nothing undone for the pleasure of their guests and true, whole-hearted hospitality and beautiful entertainment was extended in the homes of the city. Mrs. T. L. Townsend is leader of the district, and she was here, there and everywhere, making every one feel at home. She presided with dignity and perfect ease at the business sessions which were held Thursday morning and afternoon at the opera house. The stage was decorated with flags and many ferns and flowers. The addresses of welcome were made by Mr. North and Mayor White and Mrs. N. A. McLean, which were responded to by Mrs. Eugene Little, State president of the U. D. C. A paper on North Caroiina's part of the war, written by Mrs. Jane Sholar, was next on the programme. Mrs. Hunter G. Smith told of the completion of the Home and something of the life there. BEAUTIFUL HOME WEDDING CELEBRATED AT SANFORD, FLA.

Many Wilmington friends will be interested in learning of the marriage of Miss Lillian Higgins, daughter of Mrs. James Cochran Higgins, to Mr. Ralph Wight at the home of the bride's mother in Sanford, Fla., on last Wednesda yevening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Wight is well known in Wilmington, her father having been at one time superintendent of transportation for the Atlatic Coast Line in this city.

"The prominence of the two families both in Georgia and Florida," says the Sanford Herald in an extended account of the beautiful home wedding, "the popularity of the young couple and the beauty and charm of the winsome bride, surrounded the wedding with unusual interest. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Henry Wight and is identified in business with the Wight Wholesale Grocery Company, of this city.

"A prettier setting for a wedding," The Herald continues, "could scarcely be imagined than the attractive home presented on Wednesday night. At the western end of the living room, where the impressive marriage ceremony of th Catholic church was read by Rev. Father O'Riordan, an altar had been improvised before which the vows were said.

"To the strains of the 'Bridal Chorus' from Lohengrin, the bridal party entered passing down the aisle formed of broad white satin ribbons and grouped at the foot of the altar. Tiny Rose LaVerne Hurt, carrying a basket of rose petals, entered with John Edward Higgins, the ring hearer, who carried the wedding ring on a silver tray. They were followed by Charlotte Stryker, another little flower girl, also carrying a basket of rose petals. The charming young bridesmaids, Miss Adelaide Higgins and Miss Margaret Wight, walked together, after whom came Mrs. Harry Nelson Dickson, the matron of honor. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Edward Higgins. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Hal Wight.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wight left shortly after the ceremony in their car for Daytona Beach, en route to Cairo, Ga., where the honeymoon will be spent with relatives of the groom. The bride wore a handsome automobile suit of Copenhagen Jersey cloth finished with facings of white with broad white collar and white buttons. The hat was tailored with bands of white. Mr. and Mrs. Wight will be at home after July 1 in their bungalow on Palmetto avenue.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to Elvington's Pharmacy or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

FACTORY TO START AGAIN

New York Concern to Operate Plant of Willard Manufacturing Co., on Experimental Basis.

It will be of much interest to the business and commercial interests of Wilmington to learn that the Riegel Sack Company, of New York, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country, doing annually a business of more than $20,000,000, has leased the plant of the Willard Bag & Manufacturing Company at Second and Kidder streets, which has not been in operation for the past year, and will this week begin running it with a force of 60 hands.

Mr. E. Payson Willard, who operated the plant for 20 years with great success, is in charge of the distributing office of the Riegel Sack Co., in Norfolk, Va., and he has been endeavoring for some time to get the New York concern to start a factory in the South. Naturally he wanted it to be in Wilmington and has succeeded in getting the company to operate the Wilmington plant on an experimental basis. One of the inducements offered has been low taxes and should the labor prove satisfactory and the freight rates be agreeable, it is expected that it will be run permanently. The New York concern has several cotton mills in South Carolina for the manufacture of cloth for sacks but no sack factory south of Jersey City. Should the Wilmington factory prove a success, and Mr. Willard believes that it will, it would mean that Wilmington would be made the distributing point for the Riegel Company for all the territory south of Virgina and east of the Mississippi.

Mr. Willard as soon as he gets the local plant to running will return to Norfolk, but will visit this city occasionally, his friends here will be glad to learn, as the factory in Wilmington will be under the direction of the Norfolk office.

THEATRICAL

With a formidable reputation behind it in its career on the stage, "A Fool's Revenge" makes its way to the screen in all its unrelenting force and unsparing frankness, the latest release from the William Fox studios, and is today's spectacular feature at the Royal. Little or nothing is left to be supplied by the imagination; realism is given without regard for conventional folk and their ever-accompanying sensibilities.

It is only fair to remark that "A Fool's Revenge," in as much as it possesses the above traits, will rub some people the wrong way. There are others who will refuse to take the picture seriously after it has advanced beyond a certain point.

There is the Fool, whose wife has been lured away from him by a man whose specialty is luring. Later the Fool does all in his power to make it easy for a second villain to lure the first villain's wife. But then there is the terrible mistake—instead of the first villain's wife the Fool has aided in the seduction of his own daughter.

William H. Tooker makes an appealing and pitiable Fool. He has done his work well and the Fool's part is not an easy one. Maude Gilbert is the erring wife and Ruth Findlay plays the role of the daughter, Richard Neal is the first villain.

The Royal management wants to let it be understood, that while higher priced pictures are on this week's bill, none will be found stronger nor more enjoyable to the lover of the tenser drama that "A Fool's Revenge" today. This is a guarantee!

Big Bill at Grand.

A great five-reel all-star bill for a nickle—that's what the Grand offers you today—three of the very biggest stars of all screendom, too.

The bill is headed by a great three-reel Edison super-drama, "The Working of a Miracle," starring that ideal photoplay pair, the favorite and finished Edward Earle, and the Dainty little screen beauty, Gladys Hulette. With never a suggestion of preaching these three acts, throbbing with emotions and motives that have wrecked untild lives, appeal with trueness of sympathy that comes only when the wells of human wrecks are probed with an artist's hand. Edward Earle, as the man who would not know a God, is an embodiment of compelling, while Gladys Hulette, prosecuted for love of him, is a pathetic figure that silently creeps into ones heart. Thrill is masterly wrought in this great feature. There is a completeness and a finished appearance to this drama that, with its sensational features, and melodramatic incidents, are well justified for the sake of the theme of the author. You may have seen longer photoplays—of course you have; but you will never see one that will leave such a satisfied feeling in you as this superb three-reel drama.

Beautiful Beverly Bayne stars in a great Essanay dramatic feature "Whose Was the Blame?" throbbing with heart interest throughout.

Then there's a great Powers animated Cartoon Comedy. "Mr. Fuller Pep"—you saw one of them last Tuesday, and this one is even better! Five big reels!

Bijou on the Job.

Here's the Bijou on the job, as usual. To celebrate "Flag Day" a day in advance they have booked for today a tremendous special feature "Corporal Billy's Come-Back," a startling two-real fimization of that great story which many readers of the Saturday Evening Post will remember reading some weeks ago, written by Harry Leon Wilson. It takes a good story to get in the "Post" and "Corporal Billy's Come-Back" is a corker.

Starring in this superb master-drama is that noted dramatic star, Themas Jefferson, the son of the lamented Joseph Jefferson. Corporal Billy was the last of the G. A. R. boys in town. He had always led the Decoration Day parade, and when they left him out he was heart-broken. How he proved his heroism and showed he was neither too old nor too proud to fight makes one of the strongest stories the Universal has ever presented.

"Graft" is also on today's great five reel bill, the thirteenth great chapter of this stirring serial story being as usual, full of surprises.

Then there's a great L-Ko comedy—one of the best single reelers you have ever seen, entitled "A Busted Honeymoon," and starring inimitiable Alice Howell in the role of the disappointed bride.

To Be Presented Flag Day.

It's a happy idea—presenting tha great patriotic and preparedness serial for the first time on "Flag Day," President Wilson's new National holiday. For "The Secret of the Submarine" strikes the keynote of real Americanism—makes it heard around the world! The invention of a sea power which would forever dominate the seas of the world, barely achieved, is destroyed in a fierce undersea encounter. The United States and foreign governments—also a selfish millionaire—are in a hot contest for it. With the inventor's death, the sole records, hidden an old library pass from hand to hand. The mad chase carries to Paris, London, Petrograd, and back to U. S. soil. The inventor's daughter's identity is the "mystery within a mystery" that millions will strive to solve.

It is produced by the promoters of those great successes "The Girl and the Game" and "The Diamond From the Sky." The well balanced company headed by beautiful Juanita Hansen and strong Thomas Chatterton, a striking figure, an intrepid actor, with Miss Hansen's daring and dash that thrills and draws its vivid contrasts, keen delineations and different strong characterizations.

Whatever you do tomorrow, don't miss the opening chapter of this great serial. It's absolutely guaranteed to please you—money back if it don't.

MEXICANS GOOD SERVANTS

Girls Are Willing Workers, But Are Pretty Poor Cooks.

(From Woman's Home Companion.)

Miss Tarbell's article in the February Companion on "The Household Boycott" is especially interesting to New Mexico readers, because the plan she suggests—i. e., workers to live at home and to work certain definite hours, with extra pay for extra time—is the custom in this part of the country. Our maids are almost all the children of the original Mexican settlers of this section.

Owing to the Latin-American standards of chaperonage, even the peon families greatly prefer that the daughters are in their own homes at night. Fully two-thirds of the Mexican maids live at home. A very common arrangement is work from 7 a. m. to noon week days, 8 to 11 a. m. Sundays, the usual wage $2.50; or the maid may remain til 2 p. m. and receive $3 a week, with one or two meals at the home of the employer.

They are poor cooks, but excellent houseworkers, clean, neat, quick and respectful, and more dependable than the average in other parts of the country. Indeed, barring only certain sections in the South, there is no part of the United States where as good domestic workers may be obtained for the same wages, or where the girls themselves are equally contented with their work. I attribute this to the system.

The Importance of Skin Care In the Springtime

Infectious skin diseases are irritating, unpleasant, unsightly and dangerous. There never was a greater mistake made than trying to cure such disorders with pastes, lotions, or creams, rubbed on the outside. You can't cure skin diseases that way, because they are the direct result of infected blood, and you can't rub or soak poisons out of the blood.

The annoyances of skin troubles are worse in spring than any other time. The perspiration that starts with the first warm days intensifies the smarting, burning sensation, and makes the trouble almost unbearable. There is only one way to relieve them, and that is through the blood, which must be thoroughly cleansed and purified. There is only one remedy that you can rely upon to do this, and that is S. S. S., the surest and best blood cleanser known.

S. S. S. acts with sure effect directly upon the blood—taken internally, it goes right into the blood vessels, drives out every bit of poison of whatever nature, kills the germs that starve and impoverish the blood, restores the skin to its proper condition and gives you healthy bone and tissue building blood. Even the worst cases, such as scrofula and blood poison, yield promptly to this efficient vegetable remedy. It doesn't matter how long you have had skin trouble, or if it has developed into chronic sores that you had given up all hope of curing. Take S. S. S. when all else fails. It brings relief. COMMISSIONER GRAHAM MAKES GOOD SHOWING

In Annual Report to State Board of Agriculture.

Recommends That State Follow Example of Federal Government and Discontinue Tick Eradication in Free Range.

Raleigh, N. C., June 12.—The annual report of Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham to the State Board of Agriculture submitted today, shows $185,766 receipts of the department for the six months period December 1, 1915, to June 1, 1916, with a balance in the treasury to the credit of the department of $43,728, including $11,748 for outstanding warrants. The fertilizer tonnage for the past six months was $530,346 compared with $577,657 for the corresponding season last year.

The revenue of the department the past six months included $106,069, on fertilizer tags; $8,876 on cotton seed meal ; $17,344 on feed; $11,919 on hog serum; $8,694 on test farm revenue; $14,597, from lime work, $4,600 from bleached flour tax.

Concerning the recent primaries and the departmental states with the people, Commissioner Graham makes this statement in his report:

"By a majority in three-fourths of the counties as represented in the primary election on the third instant all accusations of senile infirmity on the part of the commissioner, or lack of progress in the work of the department, have been rebuked and the work approved by the large majority cast for the renomination for re-election of the present commissioner.

"An advance of $10,000,000 per year in the value of agricultural crops for six years, an annual increase of 5,000,000 bushels of corn and more than a supply of flour to feed the State, and raising from 20th to 15th place in the value of crops, are not signs of retrograde and seem to have been convincing to the voters."

Treating the 1916 crop conditions the commissioner's report shows about a thirty per cent. shortage in the wheat crop compared with last season; oat crop short about 50 per cent.; short first cuttings of hay and clover and with prospects fine for corn, cotton, tobacco and sweet potatoes. The soja bean is fast becoming a staple crop, with three mills already established for the extraction of oil and manufacture of meal.

Cattle Tick Eradication.

It is reported that the cattle tick eradication has now extended over about all the stock law territory in the State and the commissioner recommends that further operations be conditioned on the sections in which work of eradication is carried on adopting stock law in the stead of free range. The Federal government is proceeding with the work in free range counties where the county provides the vats, but Commissioner Graham believes that stock law should be a condition for the provision of eradication work.

The national department has notified the State Department of Agriculture that it will discontinue its co-operative work for the eradication of hog cholera conducted by Dr. F. D. Owen, and suggests that the work be carried on by the formation of clubs. The report says hog cholera is much more prevalent in free range than in stock law territory and the commissioner and the board are clearly very much in favor of the application of stock law to the entire State, the little territory now in free range being really a menace to the rest of the State and a hinderance to the progress that should pervade the State.

The board is urged to provide the most liberal support for the farmers' institute work, including provision for an assistant for Director T. B. Parker of the division. Good report is made of the progress of the work of supplying lime to farmers at cost. It is recommended that there be a change in the manner of extending aid to the district and county fairs so that the local associations, with the approval of the commissioner of agriculture, could adjust the premiums to suit the section that the fair represents.

The commissioner reports that the co-operative work is progressing finely and recommends that sheep raising and bee culture be added to the activities of the department as soon as practicable. Community service, womens' work and rural credits are treated briefly as showing steady progress.

The Board of Agriculture, which convened today, will be in session for probably three days or longer, this being rather an annual than a semi-annual session.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CELEBRATES AND HEARS JUDGE STACY

Sunday a Red Letter Day With Hay Street Church, Fayetteville.

Fayetteville, June 12.—With fitting and inspiring ceremonies the congregation of the Hay Street Methodist church celebrated the 57th anniversary of their Sunday school, Sunday morning and evening. The most interesting feature of the morning service was an eloquent and helpful address by Judge W. P. Stacy, of Wilmington.

The evening services were entirely given over to the children of the Sunday school. "The Children's Hosanna" was sung by the children as a processional, and a song, "Children's Day," followed a prayer by the pastor. The greeting was by Robert Upton, followed by two recitations, "Butterfly Flowers," by Bertha Luther, and "The Forget-me-not," by Rebecca Crowson. A song, "Flower Children," was sunk by Dorothy Sheetz. Little George Dunlap Lilly recited "How Birds and Flowers Pray." The choir sang "Birds and Butterflies." A Cradle roll lullaby was sung by little Mildred Cotton. The story of the coming of the king was sung by Pattie Malone, followed by three recitations—"My Heart is God's Little Garden," by Ruth Powers, "Everybody's Business," by Murphy Judd; "Weeds and Seeds," by Jay Hart Patterson; a solo, "How They Grow," by Josephus Smith; offering speech by Lloyd Thompson, "Helping in the Garden," by Junior boys; song, "Outside the Garden," by Junior girls; recitation, "No Children's Day," by Virginia Kelly; and song "The World Children," by the Bright Jewels.

SIXTEEN HORSES LOST IN FIRE AT GOLDSBORO

Livery Stables, Buggy and Wagon Establishment Burned.

Several Robberies During Fire Leads to Belief That Flames Were of Incendiary Origin—Lady Attacked by Negro.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Goldsboro, N. C., June 12.—One of the most disastrous fires that has occurred in many years in this city, happened Saturday night about 10 o'clock, when the livery stables of Mr. Don Scott and the buggy and wagon establishment of Mr. Willie Best were destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in Mr. Scott's stables and then spread rapidly to Mr. Best's place of business, which was soon a mass of roaring flames.

The fire department responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway that they were unable to check it before almost everything was in ashes, but their heroic efforts saved many of the adjoining buildings from meeting the same fate.

Mr. Scott had 15 fine horses and a mule burned almost to a crisp. Everything that was in human power was done to drive these poor unfortunate animals from the stables but to no avail, as they had become so much frightened that nothing could be done with them, and they were a sad sight to look upon Sunday morning.

The entire loss is estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. The fire is believed to have been caused from incendiary origin, and several negroes have been arrested in connection with it.

During the fire and while most of the populace were out looking on, several robberies occurred in different parts of the city. In every instance it seems that residences were being robbed. It is believed that the fire was started to create excitement to draw the people from their homes, so as to give these thieves a chance to do their thieving.

In one instance Mrs. W. H. Jernigan, who lives near the scene of the fire, heard an unusual noise in her dining room, and on going to investigate found a burly negro in there ransacking everything in sight. And as soon as she was in his reach he delat her a terrific blow on the head with some blunt instrument, which came near being fatal. He then made his escape. At this writing Mrs. Jernigan is in a precarious condition.

Norfolk, Va., June 11.—Lieutenant (Junior grade) Barnes, commander of the destroyer Roe, was placed on trial today before the general court martial convening at the navy yard, on the charge of neglect of duty. He is held accountable for the collision between the Roe and Destroyer Monahan, which occurred in Key West harbor, March 25.

ROCKY MOUNT GOING AFTER 1917 PYTHIAN CONVENTION

Will Send Delegation of Pythians and Bankers to Waynesville.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 12.—When the Pythians of North Carolina meet in grand lodge session in Waynesville this week one of the liveliest bidders for the 1917 session is to be Rocky Mount, if present plans do not miscarry. Armed with attractive Pythian buttons which bear the reminder that "Rocky Mount wants you in 1917," the largest delegation of Pythians that ever attended a grand lodge session from Rocky Mount will be on hand to make the bid. Representing Lodge No. 84 there is included State Officer R. B. Owneus, State Representative H. L. Holden and Past Chancellors N. Y. Chambliss and F. P. Spruill. This committee will be augmented by attendance of local bankers who will divide the time between Asheville and Waynesville and who will be present when this matter of a 1917 meeting place is decided and include Past Chancellor J. B. Ramsey, president of the First National, Past Chancellor F. P. Spruill, cashier of the Savings and Trust Company and Mr. F. F. Ragan, cashier of the National bank of Rocky Mount.

SOUTH CAROLINA GOVERNOR LEAVES TROOPS IN READINESS

Columbia, S. C., June 12.—Fifteen delegates from South Carolina to the Democratic National convention left yesterday for St. Louis. Governor Manning and the last of the delegation left for the convention city this afternoon.

"In view of the probable call for the mobilization of the National Guard," Governor Manning, before leaving, issued an executive order commanding all the South Carolina infantry companies and the divisions of naval militia to put themselves in readiness for active service.

"I deem it of the utmost importance," said the order, "that the officers and enlisted men in this state begin at once and in earnest active preparations for increasing the strength and efficiecy of the several commands."

DECLARED TO BE GREATEST FIGHTING CRAFT AFLOAT TODAY

Super-Dreadnaught Pennsylvania at Norfolk is Commissioned.

Norfolk, Va., June 12.—The United States super-dreadnaught Pennsylvania was commissioned this afternoon at the navy yard, Captain W. B. Wilson, former chief of the inspection bureau at Washington, assuming command. Captain Wergman is in comman of the ship's marine guard. The crew was assembled from the receiving ship at St. Helena station and the marines from the marine barracks.

The Pennsylvania will provision and coal at once and is expected to sail the latter part of the week for Philadelphia. Experts who examined the big warship today declared that with her heavy armor and battery of twelve 14-inch guns and twenty-two 5-inch rapid fire rifles, the Pennsylvania is the greatest fighting craft afloat.

RALEIGH WIDOW A SUICIDE LEAVING THREE CHILDREN

Had Exhausted Resources and Saw No Way to Support Family.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 12.—Broken-hearted over the death of her husband and despairing of ever providing for three small dependent children, Mrs. J. W. Cooper, 118 West Morgan street, shot herself through the left breast today and died almost instantly. She had spent all resources left by her deceased husband, and her father, Pat Barbee, section foreman for the Southern Railway, is fatally ill at this time and, while she left no statement, these conditions are thought to have impelled her to the suicide.

NORFOLK SOUTHERN RAILROAD OWNS LINE TO BEULAVILLE

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 12.—Papers have been filed at the courthouse here for the transfer of the big lumber plant operated by the Kinston Manufacturing Company in Southwest Kinston, to the company from the Norfolk Southern Railroad Company, owner of the mill. All the manufacturing company's leaseholds except railroad trackage and a depot are included. J. T. Deal, of Norfolk, is the head of the lumber company. For this, $20,000 in money and "other valuable consideration," Deal, the Kinston Belt Line Company and the Kinston Manufacturing Company convey to the Norfolk Southern the Deal railroad from Pink Hill, Lenoir county, to Beulaville, in Duplin, a distance of 12 miles, with rights-of-way, equipment, leases, etc.

The transaction appears to have settled differences between the Kinston Manufacturing Company and the Norfolk Southern which have cropped up from time to time, and assures continued operation of the mill, one of the largest plants in this section. The Deal interests evidently are forsaking the railroad business and the Norfolk Southern the lumber business. The Norfolk Southern has a line from here to Pink Hill, a distance of about 20 miles. It is rumored that it contemplates extension of the road from Beulaville to a point in Pender county.

ROOSEVELT STILL MUM AT HIS SAGAMORE HILL HOME.

James R. Garfield and Dean Lewis Call but Tell Nothing Afterwards.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 12.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was visited at his home at Sagamore Hill today by James R. Garfield and Dean William Draper Lewis. According to his secretary, John A. McGrath, who returned from Chicago, "the Colonel had a full and frank discussion" with Mr. Garfield and Dean Lewis "as to what he intends to say" with regard to the political situation and the time he should say it.

Neither of the visitors would make any statement after their interview with Colonel Roosevelt.

McGrath announced that Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt would motor to New York tomorrow to meet their son, Kermit, and the latter's wife, who are expected to arrive from Panama.

Colonel Roosevelt will remain in New York over night and on Wednesday will meet Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the Progressive National convention, and Harold L. Ickes, of Illinois.

Colonel Roosevelt again secluded himself in his home today, except for a couple of hours when he went for a horseback ride with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Washington, June 12.—In a supplemental decision announced today in the case of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and the Stone Gap Coal & Coke Company of Virginia, the Interstate Commerce Commission orders the railroad to establish rate divisions of 15 cents a ton on coal and 18 cents on coke with the interstate tap line, operated by the coal company on through shipments, the St. Charles and Appalachia districts, Virginia, to points on the north of the Ohio river, and in Kentucky and Tennessee.

COTTON MARKET DECLINES

Following Early Decline, Prices Rally and Close is Steady but Somewhat Lower.

New York, June 13.—An early decline carried October contracts off to 12.88 in the cotton market here today, but prices then steadied with October selling up to 12.95 and closing at 12.93. The general list closed steady at a net decline of 2 to 5 points for the day.

Cables were lower than due and after opening barely steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points, prices soon sold off to a net loss of 9 to 10 points. This was the result of rather active selling by a prominent local commission house who was supposed to be liquidating either a local or Southern long line, and whose selling during the first hour was estimated at nearly 20,000 bales.

Liverpool was a moderate buyer and there was also a little support from spot houses on the decline which carried July contracts off to 12.73 and December to 13.05, or about 12 to 13 points under the best point reached on the bulge of Saturday. It seemer, however, that the selling movement had pretty well spent itself at this level and prices steadied late in the morning on covering, with July working up to 12.80 and December to 13.11, or back to within 2 or 3 points of Saturday's closing figures. Trading later was very quiet with fluctuations narrow and irregular. Closing prices showed reactions of 2 to 3 points from the best.

The day's weather news was considered very favorable, leading to further talk of a bearish weekly report from the Weather Bureau on Wednesday and an encouraging end-June condition. These advices, however, did not seem to bring in much selling pressure, and the absence of increased offerings from the South probably accounted for part of the scattered covering and the rally from the early decline. The census report on supply and an idea that it would show consis expected at the opening tomorrow and an idea that it would sho wcontinued activity among domestic spinners may possibly have been a factor on the partial recovery. Trading was not active enough to indicate any fresh sentiment around the ring, however, and private cables also reported a very quiet market in Liverpool.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Market Rather Heavy; Selling of Special Nature Makes its Appearance.

New Orleans, June 12.—The cotton market was rather heavy today and selling of a special nature made its appearance, sending prices, at their lowest 8 to 9 points under the close of last week. One explanation for the selling was that large traders were putting out short cotton on good crop prospects and another was that foreign trade interests were liquidating their holdings of long cotton. Pressure was heaviest early in the session. Toward noon the market made almost a full recovery going back to within one point of Saturday's last quotations. The close was at a net loss of 2 to 4 points.

The weather map was considered favorable and private crop accounts for the most part were optimistic in tone and developed a considerable volume of offerings from room traders. Late in the day, however, the tendency among short sellers was toward caution owing to uncertainty over Wednesday's monthly consumption figures from the census bureau.

Closed steady. July 12.65; October 12.74; December 12.88; January 13.03; March 13.14; spot steady, unchanged; middling 12.63; sales on spot 876, to arrive 830.

STOCK MARKET STRONGER

Result of Chicago Convention Evidently Satisfactory to Wall Street Interests.

New York, June 13.—The reasonable inference to be drawn from today's stock market was that the selection of the Republican National ticket and the virtual collapse of the Progressive movement were altogether satisfactory to the important financial interests of the country. Stocks opened with a strong tone, gathering greater momentum later and extending to almost all classes of securities. The further successes of the Russian armies against Austria also were a helpful factor in their effect upon speculative sentiment. In the main the course of the market indicated an excess of demand over supply and urgent covering of short contracts.

This was especially the case with old time favorites, notably United States Steel which recovered its long dormant leadership on an advance of 1 5-8 points to 87 3-8, accompanied by a huge overtur nof the stock in very large individual blocks. Other issues dependent in a measure upon future tariff conditions were significantly active and strong.

Important rails almost without exception, improved substantially over last week's final prices, Reading heading the movement with a gain of 3 points. The one new high record of the day was made by American Beet Sugar, which rose 4 1-4 to 87 1-2. Total sales of stocks amounted to 95,000 shares.

Bonds were firm with future heavy dealings in Anglo-French 5s, which closed at a slight gain, after some early heaviness. Total sales of bonds, par value, $5,170,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

ARTICLE BY MR. CATLETT

In June Number of Engineering Record on Decolorization of Water Favorably Commented On.

An article by Mr. George F. Catlett, chemist and bacteriologist of the New Hanover Board of Health, on the decolorization of water and the reduction in cost that has been effected in the Wilmington waterworks plant, published in the June number of the Engineering Record, the leading periodical of its kind in America, is commented on very favorably in an editorial in the same issue. Mr. Catlett returned Sunday from New York, where he attended the annual meeting of the American Waterworks Association. Mr. John H. Sweeney, engineer at the waterworks plant, will return later in the week.

Mr. Catlett has made a special study of the treatment of water and while the article in the Record is of a rather technical nature, the editorial, which was written by Prof. George C. Whipple, of Harvard University, who has visited Wilmington and inspected the waterworks plant here, will be of especial interest. It follows:

"At Wilmington, N. C., George F. Catlett, chemist in charge of the filtration plant, has recently put into successful practice some of the theories that have been discussed academically by sanitarians for several years. In particular he has done this by considering coagulation as a colloidal phenomenon. The water supply of Wilmington is taken from near the junction of two streams, one carrying colored water, one turbid water, and both of them tidal. The situation results in an extremely variable load on the filter from hour to hour, with a range of color in the raw water from about 130 to 200, and a range of turbidity from 0 to 50. This varying load coupled with a low alkalinity made the water a dificult one to decolorize. A coagulation basin of insufficient size increased the difficulty.

"To obtain a good effluent and at the same time preserve a sufficient alkalinity to prevent rusty hot water in the city, soda was used with alum, and large quantities of both chemicals were applied. Present practice has been conducted on the theory that an excess of alkalinity should be maintained, but after some experimental studies Mr. Catlett found that a better decolorization, with smaller amounts of chemicals, wos obtained by first overdosing the water with alum and afterward adding limee. This was a corroboration of the idea advanced by Prof. George C. Whipple many years ago in a discussion before the American Society of Civil Engineers, although the idea was worked out anew by Mr. Catlett.

"A second coagulation basin constructed at Wilmington some time ago made is possible to put the idea into practice. The water in the first basin was kept acid, that it, was made to contain an excess of alum, and the alkalinity was restored as it entered the second basin. The result was a saving of 50 or 70 per cent. in chemicals, and a filtered water clear and uniformly low in color. An incidental result of the overdosing with alum should be the prevention of algae growths in the slightly acid water of the first basin. Detailed results will be found in the article on page 741.

"Mr. Catlett's theory is that the coloring matter of water is a colloid charged with positive electricity, and that this charge is best neutralized by adding soda ash and alum together, with the latter in slight excess. The theory raises some interesting questions. The colloidal character of coloring matter may be regarded as established. But all coloring matter in water is not alike with chemicals. It is possible that not all of it is positively charged. Perhaps some coloring matter may be charged negatively. It is not certain, therefore, that the Wilmington method will work satisfactorily with all waters, but it is a method which should be studied experimentally wherever deeply stained water is being decolorized.

"Mr. Catlett also advances the idea that carbonic acid acts negatively to the colloidal coloring matters and offers this as an explanation of the better keeping quantities of swamp water in casks on shipboard, the increased carbonic acid resulting from the decomposition of organic matter being an element in the subsequent clarification of the water.

"If decolorization results from a neutralization of the postive electricity of colored colloids, one cannot help looking forward to some physical process which may perhaps acomplish this result without the use of alum, some process which will do for the colloida coloring matter of water what the activated sludge process is doing for the colloidal matter of sewage. Defend it as we may, the use of alum for the decolorization of soft colored water has not been an unmixed blessing. Sometimes it of doubtful expediency. The Wilmington experiments point in a new direction and should be carefully studied."

MR. L. LEON RETIRES

From Active Business, But Will Remain Here for Some Time.

Mr. Louis Leon, adjutant of Cape Fear Camp, No. 254, United Confederate Veterans, who for many years past has held a responsible position with Shrier & Solomon, has retired from active business and after the State Reunion of Veterans next July is over will leave for Baltimore, where he will make his home with his son.

Although 74 years old, Mr. Leon is still as active as a man a score of years younger. He had been seeking to retire for some time, but had put the matter off until Mr. Solomon could get a competent man to succeed him. Mr. J. M. Raftery, of this city, who for some time past has been traveling for Schloss Brothers, of Baltimore, has been secured to succeed him and has already assumed the duties of the position.

Before going to Baltimore, Mr. Leon will spend some time with his daughter in Charlotte. Mr. Leon has made a great many warm friends during his stay in Wilmington and they as well as his comrades who are members of the Cape Fear Camp, will deeply regret his approaching departure. It will be a source of gratification to them, however, that he will not leave until after the reunion which will be held July 26 to 27.

FOR GOOD ROADS EVERYWHERE

Slogan of Big Convention at Wrightsville Beach Next Week—Local Committees Active.

With encouraging reports that indicate a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the State and the local committees actively engaged in making preparations, the convention of the North Carolina Good Roads Association at Wrightsville Beach next week promises to be of unusual interest and importance.

A meeting of the Executive committee of the Wilmington Highway Association, with the chairmen of the different committees, will be held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. The object of the meeting is to further promote the plans and to get acquainted with the different features of the programme which is being worked out at the present time. Special provision is being made for the large number of delegates and visitors expected. The association has arranged to issue a pamphlet giving a list of the hotels and boarding houses in Wilmington and at Wrightsville Beach. This will be given to the visitors upon their arrival and gives the location of the hotels and boarding houses, number of rooms in each, rates and other information of value.

The headquarters in Wilmington will be at the Chamber of Commerce, seventh floor, Murchison Bank building, and headquarters at the beach will be at the Oceanic Hotel. Provision will be made at the union station for rechecking baggage and handling other details. The headquarters and bureau of information at the Chamber of Commerce and the Oceanic Hotel will be in charge of persons especially employed for this work. Delegates will be directed to the different places where they can secure accommodations and the hotel managers and boarding house keepers have agreed to co-operate in the plan.

In order to make sure that all arrangements for handling the convention have been successfully worked out, a meeting of the Wilmington Highway Association will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Monday, June 19th, at 4 P. M. Members of all committees will be requested to be present at this meeting and to take an active interest in the plans for the convention. Every provision will be made at this meeting to handle the large crowd with dispatch and to direct the work in a manner that will reflect credit on Wilmington and New Hanover county.

Much interest in the convention is being displayed by good roads enthusiasts throughout the State, especially in the surrounding counties, and Wilmington will be in readiness to handle the crowd when the time comes.

The Entertainment committee has been most successful in perfecting plans for the different attractive features already announced for the convention. The work of the Finance committee is going forward in a most encouraging manner and there is every indication that the people will respond liberally to the requests for funds. The programme for the convention, which will be especially attractive, and will be a most interesting souvenir of the occasion, containing in addition to the programme proper, much information about Wilmington and New Hanover county and quite a number ofsplendid photographs of good roads, beach and city scenes, will be off the press and ready for distribuon by the latter part of the week. Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt has been particularly successful in securing many prominent speakers for the convention and it is expected that the meeting will accomplish great good in the interest of State highways and road improvements throughout North Carolina.

"On the right wing of the Riga fortress, the Germans opened an offensive north of the Tirul marsh and were repulsed, after which our troops made a fresh advance.

"On the whole front of the Jacobstaut positions, on the morning of the 11th, the Germans opened a sudden violent artillery and rifle fire. Enemy columns then began to advance at some places, but everywhere were driven back.

"On the night of the 11th, strong German forces, after artillery preparation, took the offensive south of Drisviaty, but in the face of our concentrated fire were obliged to retire.

"In the region south of Krevo, the enemy on the night of the 11th opened a violent artillery fire and then took the offensive with considerable forces South of the village of Kotchny, enemy detachments succeeded in penetrating the wood east of Kotchany, but under our artillery fire and a hail of hand grenades were compelled to evacuate the greater part of the wood.

WITH BOYS AT CAMP PENTON

How Some of Wilmington's Youngsters Are Spending the Time in the Outdoors at Lake Waccamaw.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lake Waccamaw, (Camp Penton), June 12.—One could hardly wish for a more interesting and pleasant visit to any place than awaits the visitor to Camp Penton.

Camp Penton has an ideal location on Lake Waccamaw, one of the finest lakes in North Carolina. The lake is seven miles wide and twelve long, affords splendid opportunities for boating, fishing, swimming, and all sorts of water sports. A smooth sandy bottom, clear water, and a fine beach makes it almost unexcelled as a lake for camp purposes.

The tents are arranged in a long row along the beach under some big hickory, oak and juniper trees. A large pavilion with kitchen attached is used for a dining hall. A few yards from this is another still larger pavilion used for a library, reading room, rainy day games and sports, and concerts. The Victrola is heard here almost any hour in the day. The tents are furnished with strong canvas-covered double decker cots, each tent accommodating seven boys and a leader, there being eight single cots. All of the tents have flies and the boys do not fear the hardest rain. The headquarters' tent is furnished with a full supply of medicines, which seem to be sufficient for every ill to which a camper could fall heir.

Aubrey Morse has charge of the camp store and is the dispenser of both camp necessities and luxuries. He is also the treasurer for the camp.

Richard Thigpen, the private secretary to the camp director, is kept busy at the typewriter most of the time.

Sunday at Camp Penton, although rather quiet, is one of the most interesting and enjoyable days of the week. The morning dip follows immediately the setting up exercises, and is the only swim allowed. Breakfast is then served, tent inspection follows, then an hour for reading or writing, after that everybody hikes away to the nearest church for the 11 o'clock service. After dinner there is a quiet period for rest and then Sunday school. All the members of the camp attend Sunday school, and can be counted present by their own Sunday schools in the city. Late in the afternoon each leader takes a group of boys out for a hike around the lake or through the woods where they can be alone for awhile in a small group. Immediately after supper comes vesper service, in many respects the most valuable hour of the entire week. All members of the camp walk up the lake to a quiet place under the trees by the edge of the water. Here as the sun sinks behind the trees across the lake and the shadows of night begin to fall they sing songs and listen to a talk that has in it a great life message for boys. That is the time when their souls are most receptive and there is a response to the finest impulses that come into the life of a boy. Among the most cherished memories of camp life will be the memories of these vesper services by the lake in the twilight.

The camp programme also affords splendid opportunities for boys to have interviews with strong Christian men on the problems of their boyhood.

One of the choicest experiences and privileges of camp life is the opportunity to form strong friendships. The fine spirit of friendship and brotherhood at Camp Penton makes it possible for many such friendships to be formed there.

One who has been to camp knows something about the voracious appetite the boys acquire on the way to camp and manage to keep as long as they stay. At Camp Penton a plenty of good, wholesome food, well cooked, and properly served is always provided. "Uncle Borneo", the camp cook, is equal to a French chef in preparing an appetizing meal for half a hundred hungry boys. One is impressed with the orderly manner in which the meals are served and the splendid behavior of the boys in the dining hall. The white oilcloths and white enamel dishes and nice surroundings keep the boys from lapsing back a few thousand years and adopting the table manners of their early ancestors, a thing that is not at all necessary just because boys are in camp.

Mr. Hinnant, the camp director, has a splendid camp programme mapped out, and is making Camp Penton the greatest summer institution for boys in this section of the State. He is ably assisted by the associate camp director, Mr. Heman Shaw, who with Scoutmaster D. Roland Potter, are conducting a Scout school for the Boy Scouts. This is Scout week at camp and every available place has been taken.

The last two weeks, June 15th to 29th, will be for the Y. M. C. A. boys.

PROTEST BY GERMAN SAILORS

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 12. — Governor Craig forwarded to German Ambassador Bernstorff, at Washington, today, a letter written by interned German sailors at Wilmington, N. C., in which they complain of mistreatment, in that the captains of the two vessels withhold money to which they are entitled, and cut off their supply of beer while officers of the vessels have abundance of the drink. The latter say numbers of the men have deserted, and that others are anxious to go ashore at Wilmington and become American citizens.

Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, German Imperial Vice Consul in Wilmington, stated last night when informed of the news from Raleigh that naturally, after having spent nearly two years in port aboard the German ships Nicaria and Kiel, there were some of the sailors who had become dissatisfied. However, he declared that every effort had been made to make it as pleasant for them as possible. Only yesterday, he stated, one of the sailors had been discharged and given his wages. At one time the offer was made to discharge any sailor, who desired to leave, and several accepted the opportunity to go ashore.

Regarding the charge made that money had been withheld, Mr. Gieschen stated that one-third of their wages are paid every three months, in accordance with the custom at sea, while the full amount is paid upon discharge, or upon arrival at a home port. He knew of no mistreatment, and as to the question of beer, declared that that is an individual matter.

He did not attach any great importance to the report, and stated that he had been ready at all times to make investigation of complaints.

There are about 25 sailors aboard the Kiel and a dozen or so on the Nicaria.
